WARNING GIVEN HUGHES AFFAIR NOT YET ENDED

Senators Aver Echoes of Appointment Will Be Heard.

HOOVER'S MEN PLAN TO RETRIEVE CREDIT

Dill Says That High Court May Be Dragged Into Politics.

FUTURE POLICY WILL TELL, HE DECLARES

Vandenberg Disputed as He Holds Bench Saved South From Military Rule.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

There was a decided hang-over in the Senate yesterday from the three-day fight on Chief Justice Hughes and the indications are that there will be sporadic outbursts for some time to come.

The administration forces, in fact, plan to get into action today or tomorrow with a belated defense of the President's appointment. With the exception of Senator Glenn, of Illinois, they kept quiet during the fight in the belief that if they joined in they would only delay a vote which was considered dangerous in view of the strength the opponents were developing.

But now they plan to seek to retrieve some of the credit to the President for making the appointment and which the political observers said had been obscured by the intense attack.

Dill and Norris Bitter.

Senators Dill (Democrat), of Washington, and Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, both warned yesterday that the matter was not at an end. It is not that any further efforts are in mind against Mr. Hughes, and in fact, the fight was not against him personally so much as it was against the economic views of the majority of the court, but Senator Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, insisted that it was a passing matter and of no significance.

"I have little or no interest in post mortems," he declared, "but I am unable to allow the observations of the senator from Washington to pass without a very brief expression of a counter philosophy which, in my judgment, is of far greater importance to the masses of the American people, through the maintenance of constitutional guarantees than the transient problem he submits as being paramount."

Dill had declared that unless the court changes its policy it will surely be dragged into politics.

Why People Heeded Fight.

"I call attention to the fact," he said, "that the reason this matter has caught the attention of the American people as it has is because it is connected with the building up of a judicial system of law that is in fact bringing economic slavery in this country, such it is for Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Sutherland and Justice Butler and Justice Van Devanter and Justice Sanford and Justice McReynolds, by their decisions in the future to say whether or not the Supreme Court will be in politics."

Vandenberg declared that in the period of reconstruction "there was nothing that stood between the substitution of military for civil rule throughout the great South, nothing that stood in any degree for the

Moore's Condition Is Growing Worse

Envoy to Poland Removed to a Hospital in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Alexander P. Moore, recently apointed Ambassador to Poland, tonight was removed from the Pottinger Sanitarium, Monrovia, Calif., to the California Hospital here. Dr. P. G. White, attending physician, said the transfer was made "because Mr. Moore is gravely ill, and needs the care only a hospital can give."

Mr. Moore received his appointment as Ambassador to Poland while resting at Palm Springs, a desert resort, and a week ago he entered the Pottinger sanitarium for treatment "of a cold." Physicians there announced he was suffering from an infection of the throat and lungs.

Shortly before he was removed to the hospital from the sanitarium physicians issued a bulletin stating Mr. Moore's condition had shown no improvement and was believed somewhat worse.

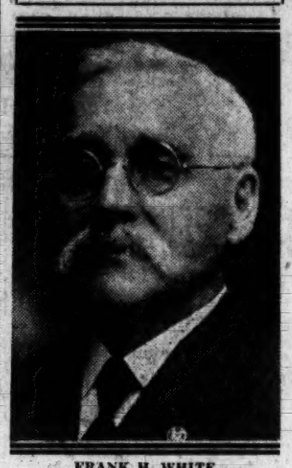
DIES AT 77



FRANK H. WHITE.

FRANK WHITE DEAD; MASONIC PATRIARCH

Was Oldest Member of Oldest Lodge, Norfolk, in the United States.

PROMINENT IN TEMPLES

Frank H. White, 77 years old, the oldest member of the oldest Masonic Lodge in this country, died yesterday in Sibley Hospital. Mr. White was affiliated with Norfolk Lodge, F. A. A. M., for 56 years. He was widely known in Masonic circle here and was affectionately known as "Sunshine Pop."

In recent years the members of Norfolk Lodge and his Washington Masonic friends have celebrated his Masonic birthday, alternating each year between Norfolk and Washington. He was as familiar a figure at Masonic temples in this city and spent much of his time in the Kallipolis Grotto.

Mr. White had been a resident of this city for many years. Since 1864 he had been working in the theatrical business in Norfolk and this city. Until a short time before his death he was stage manager of the Belasco Theater here. A family Bible which he gave to the Norfolk Loidge 50 years ago, has been used there in initiatory ceremonies since that time. He was affiliated with National Lodge, No. 12, of this city.

Mr. White had been ill two weeks. Last Saturday night he was taken to Sibley Hospital suffering from bronchial pneumonia.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by two sons, Frank, jr., and Charles J., both of this city. He made his home at 521 Second street northeast.

Sick Woman Flies To Cancer Serum

Plane Carries Victim 700 Miles to San Francisco in Last-Resort Effort.

San Francisco, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—An aerial ambulance ended a 700-mile flight tonight from Wenatchee, Wash., bringing Mrs. Irving Edwins to this city for treatment with the new cancer serum which is undergoing tests here. Too ill to make the journey by train, Mrs. Edwins, wife of an orchardits of Chelan County, Wash., was placed aboard the ambulance plane, which took off from the snow-covered Wenatchee Field at 8:05 a. m. The plane arrived here at 5:17 p. m.

Mrs. Edwins, near dead from the malady, was transferred to a waiting ambulance and taken to the experimental hospital clinic for injection of the new serum.

The serum is still in an experimental stage and the clinic has been established to submit the treatment to tests.

DRYS PREPARE TO HAVE SAY IN RUM HEARINGS

E. C. Dunwiddie Heads Prohibition Group to Come Here.

INDICATION IS SEEN OF LIVELY BATTLES

Wets to Review Assault on Amendment Next Wednesday.

VISIE OF GOV. GREEN AROUSES INTEREST

Michigan Executive to Tell Facts About His State to House Committee.

(Associated Press.)

The organized drys are preparing to have their say after the organized wets have had their day before the House judiciary committee, which has brought Nation-wide attention to itself by holding the first hearings on measures to repeal or modify the ten-year-old prohibition law.

These sessions have increased the attention which the dry-wet controversy has been getting in Washington since Christmas. Developments were few and far between yesterday, but indication was seen of plenty to be doing in the future.

Antiprohibitionists on next Wednesday and Thursday will continue their assault begun this week before the House committee. They will be followed by witnesses whose names are being brought together by Edwin C. Dinwiddie, of the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment. Other drys also may appear.

Arrival of Green Awaited.

The arrival here today of Gov. Green of Michigan is being awaited with interest by his friends. He was named to the House committee by Walter W. Liggett, a magazine writer, as having attended a "wild party" at a roadhouse near Detroit. The executive is expected to address a letter to the committee offering to tell of conditions in Michigan.

Friends of the governor said last night they understood that he did not feel it necessary to answer the charges of the witness, but that he would offer to give the committee any information he had. Mr. Green is national commander of the Spanish-American War Veterans, and had planned the trip to Washington for some time to attend the ceremonies at Arlington Cemetery in honor of the battleship Maine.

Liggett May Appear Again.

Steps were taken by Representative Lambertson, (Republican), Kansas, to have Mr. Liggett appear again before the committee next Wednesday in order that Attorney General Smith, of Kansas, may question him with regard to his charges that hard liquor could be bought in any town in that State.

Mr. Lambertson has been attempting to get in touch with Mr. Liggett in order to get him to agree voluntarily to go to Kansas and present his information before a grand jury. However, he made arrangements with Chairman Graham to have the magazine writer before the committee Wednesday to permit Attorney General Smith to cross examine him.

Gov. Reed, of Kansas, joined Attorney General Smith in a plea to Lambertson to arrange for the examination of Mr. Liggett. The writer testified to the committee that the governor had succeeded in securing an appropriation from the legislature in order to hire a group of "snoopers," whom Mr. Liggett charged with being law violators.

DOWD COMING HERE FOR DREYFUS QUIZ

Former Broker Is Subpenaed on Leaving Chicago Court Hearing.

TO BE CALLED MONDAY

James F. Dowd, one-time broker and acquaintance of the famous Dot King, Broadway celebrity, whose murder has never been solved, is en route to Washington from Chicago, to testify at a hearing here Monday into the mysterious death of Mrs. Aurelia Fisher Dreyfus last September in a plunge from the balcony of the Potomac Boat Club.

Dowd had been sought for questioning here by authorities, but not until his appearance yesterday in Felony Court in Chicago for hearing on complaint of operating a bucketshop had he been served with a subpena to testify here. The hearing there was continued and Dowd soon afterward left by train for this city, admitting to interviewers that he would be "only too glad" to testify. He had been scheduled to appear before the grand jury last Monday.

Assistant United States District Attorney Neil Burkinshaw, who is conducting the grand jury investigation into the Dreyfus death, said Dowd would be called immediately when he made his appearance here.

Mrs. Dreyfus died in Emergency Hospital shortly after she tumbled from the boat club balcony at the conclusion of a dance there which she attended with Edward J. McBrien, of New York, a friend also of Dowd.

A coroner's jury held that the death was accidental, but members of the woman's family were not satisfied with the verdict and District Attorney Leo A. Rover ordered the present grand jury investigation.

BYRD PARTY READY TO LEAVE, BELIEF

Radio Operator Says He Is Tapping Antarctic Key for Last Time.

FINAL MESSAGES LONG

South Dartmouth, Mass., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—An indication that Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his party are breaking camp at Little America immediately was given tonight in a radio conversation between his operator and the operator at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology research station here. After a long exchange of messages the operator at Little America said: "This is the last time we talk to you from Little America."

The operator here has been on a regular schedule with the Byrd party for the last month, both sending and receiving messages every night at 7:30 o'clock. The messages tonight took up a total of 50 minutes, while on all other nights this work was completed within half an hour. The air line distance between the two stations is 9,000 miles.

The operator at Little America said the entire party is sleeping in tents and that the temperature at the time was 10 degrees below zero.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Willie Smith and her brother, Roy H. Wynn, were convicted in Superior Court here on a charge of murdering the woman's husband, Curtis S. Smith, in an attempt to collect $12,000 insurance on Smith's life.

The jury, which deliberated five hours, found the couple guilty of first degree murder, but recommended mercy. The verdict automatically carries a sentence of life imprisonment. Smith was found beaten to death September 21 last. Soon afterward Wynn was arrested as a suspect when his bloodstained automobile was found near his home.

GUN DUEL ROLE IS RECOUNTED BY RUMRUNNER

OFFICER'S CONDITION IS BECOMING WORSE

Crack's Companion Gives Vivid Account of Running Battle.

HOSPITAL REFUSES REMOVAL OF SWEET

Held in Baltimore, Victim of Pursuers' Bullets Says Pal Deserted Him.

Harry Sweet, alias Charlie Haskins, yesterday made a full confession of his part in the rumrunning escapade in which Raymond Crack, Arlington County motorcycle policeman, was shot Wednesday, according to William C. Gloth, Arlington County Commonwealth attorney. Sweet's condition was reported growing worse at the Franklin Square Hospital in Baltimore.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields, of Arlington, went to Baltimore yesterday afternoon with Mr. Gloth to bring Sweet to Arlington for trial, but hospital authorities refused to permit his removal because of his condition. Sweet was shot in the chest during the race with Crack and C. W. Carr, another motorcycle policeman.

Sweet told Mr. Gloth and Sheriff Fields that he was the driver of the liquor car and that his companion, who was doing the shooting at the policeman, deserted him after they had stopped the car at Shady Side Camp, Va. He refused to reveal the identity of the other rumrunner, however.

Two Held in Jail.

Joe L. Whitehead, of Richmond, Va., and Harry Friedman, of Washington, are still held in the Arlington County Jail for further investigation though neither has been identified as the other occupant of the car.

C. Wayne Carr, Arlington County policeman and companion of Crack, yesterday gave the first detailed statement of the running gun fight. He said they were at Key Bridge watching traffic, as usual, when the car came speeding across the bridge. Becoming suspicious they gave chase, following the car along the lower road back of Arlington National Cemetery.

"When within a few hundred feet of Mount Vernon, Crack opened fire," he said, "and a bullet pierced the gasoline tank of the car. We both emptied our guns as we continued along Mount Vernon avenue, but reloaded at Oakcrest Hill. About 100 yards north of Duck Inn, which is in Arlington County, Crack was shot in the face, and blood spattered on me. I aimed at the upper part of the car and fired a shot which I believe hit the driver.

Took Crack to Hospital.

"We continued for more than a mile before Crack fell from his motorcycle. I rushed to him and took him to the Alexandria Hospital in a passing car. I then refilled the tank to my motor, secured more amunition, and started back going on to Shady Side where I met the other policemen."

Continuing his war on rum cars, Carr was a participant in another chase Friday night. While he and another officer were cruising along Mount Vernon avenue after visiting Crack, they spied a suspicious looking car at Columbia pike. They gave chase. One man jumped out and escaped but Jack Johnson, colored, was arrested and three gallons of liquor seized. When arraigned yesterday in Police Court, Johnson was held to the grand jury on a charge of transportation, and Judge Harry R. Thomas fixed his bond at $1,000.

WILLIAM M. BUTLER IN SENATORIAL RACE

Massachusetts Post Sought by Former Head of G.O.P. National Committee.

DEFERS VIEWS ON RUM

Boston, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—William M. Butler, former chairman of the national Republican committee and United States senator, today announced his candidacy for the Republican senatorial nomination in the primaries next September. He aspires to the seat now occupied by Senator Frederick H. Gillette, who has made known his intention to retire.

Butler, who managed Calvin Coolidge's campaign for the Presidency in 1924, said he believed he should be returned to the Senate to build up and protect the business of the State from the competition of the South and West. He also said he was making his plans known at this time, "partly to clarify the political situation."

Referring to prohibition as "another of the great issues of the hour," he said he would meet that issue "squarely in another statement and within a month."

"Massachusetts is preeminently a business and industrial State," Mr. Butler said. "Strange, of the last 20 senators from Massachusetts, but three, besides myself, have been business men. I should go to the Senate, among other purposes, to build up and protect its business and industrial prosperity from a competing South and West. The facts should be faced."

Mr. Butler was appointed to the Senate in 1924 by the then governor, Channing Cox, to complete a portion of the unexpired term fo the late Henry Cabot Lodge. In the 1926 election for the two remaining years of the term he was defeated by Senator David I. Walsh, (Democrat), by about 55,000 votes.

After Calvin Coolidge was nominated in 1924, Butler was selected as chairman of the national Republican committee. He had previously served as national committeeman from Massachusetts. During Coolidge's last four years in the White House, Butler remained at the party helm, retiring soon after the nomination of Herbert Hoover in 1928.

The only other announced candidacy for the nomination is Eben S. Draper, of Hopedale, former State senator and son of the late Governor Draper of Massachusetts. Draper has declared himself a "wet."

TARDIEU FIRM AS BRITISH ASK NAVY PLAN CUT

FRENCH GO TO PARIS WITHOUT CONCESSION

Their Figures MayCompel Empire to Build More, Is Contention.

ITALIANS EXPECTED TO EXPRESS REGRETS

No Reduction Is Intended at Parley, Is Their View; Japanese Reserved.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Feb. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.—Strenuous but vain efforts were made today by Great Britain to induce France to reduce the naval program announced yesterday by Premier Andre Tardieu, providing for a French fleet by 1936 of 724,479 tons.

Chiefs of the American delegation were present at a two-and-a-half-hour conference at which Premier MacDonald presented the British arguments, but are understood to have played largely a mediatory role, doing much listening and little talking. The Americans left shortly before the end of the meeting, leaving the British and French alone together.

The meeting at which the British viewpoint was presented to the French was probably the first of a series which will be resumed when Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, who left today for Paris, return to London on Monday or Tuesday. It was held in the Palace of Westminster. Those present, were Prime Minister MacDonald, Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, Tardieu and Briand, Secretary of State Stimson, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and Senator Joseph T. Robinson.

Exemptions Are Fixed.

The subcommittee of experts at a meeting in St. James' Palace today decided what small ships shall be exempt from limitation.

Prime Minister MacDonald's attempt at today's meeting of the big three to make at least a beginning in breaking down M. Tardieu's program was powerfully pressed, but the French premier went back to Paris without having made a single concession.

Premier MacDonald, it is understood, first pressed M. Tardieu to agree that his program for a largely increased French navy is a bargaining figure. Premier Tardieu did not admit this, but declared it corresponds with the needs of France. Premier MacDonald and A. V. Alexander are stated to have pointed out that the high French levels may compel the British to build more, and Mr. MacDonald gave as an instance the destroyer program, suggesting that Great Britain might feel compelled to build 200,000 tons of destroyers instead of 150,000 tons, because of the French figure of 99,600 tons.

Would Upset Previous Plan.

The significant remark was then made that this would upset the Anglo-American arrangement which envisions 150,000 tons of destroyers for the United States and Great Britain. Unfortunately, the French reply to this, if any were made, is not obtainable.

Examination of the French proposals has caused the British to pronounce that, deducting battleship and aircraft carriers, it provides for a force equivalent to 83 per cent of the British fleet in all other categories.

Attempts of the British and Italians to display surprise at the French figures are not convincing, for these have been known, roughly, for a long time, excepting the decision to build

Lehlbach Loses Patience With Critics of His Bill

Hits Back at Attackers of Retirement Plan in Letter.

Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach (Republican), of New Jersey, chairman of the House civil service committee, got angry yesterday and sent a scorching reply to the critics of his new civil service retirement bill.

He said he was "disappointed and disgusted" at their shortsightedness and lack of understanding, and he suggested that they make a study of his bill before they rushed out to oppose it.

Chairman Lehlbach unburdened himself in a letter to one E. Grimm, of the Arizona Hotel, a retirement beneficiary who had written him to protest against the bill, but, in reality, Lehlbach's letter was a reply to Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell and Robert C. Alcorn.

Mrs. Worrell, president of the League of the American Civil Service,

Perjury Case Fight Waged On Legal Wedding Age Plea

Arguments will be presented in the District Supreme Court today on a motion to strike out an allegation in the perjury indictment returned by the grand jury against Edwin A. Melville, alias Albert B. Carson, of falsification in procuring a marriage license.

Melville was arrested in New York City last September on a charge of bigamy preferred by his bride of three months, Mrs. Zelma Knecttle Carson, of this city. The bigamy charge was nolle prossed when the State failed to prove an earlier marriage.

A nurse, then attached to a local hospital, had charged that Melville had married her before the marriage to Miss Knecttle. It was charged one or two battleships against the Ersatz Preussen, Germany's "pocket battleship."

There is authority for stating, despite contrary reports, that at the British-French conference today the subject of a security pact of any kind in the Mediterranean or anywhere else was not mentioned. This does not mean it is dead; it is very much alive; it means that the discussion never got off the French figures.

Italy May Express Regrets.

The Italian delegation is considering issuing a memorandum next week expressing regrets that the figures of the other four powers made public here show that no reduction is intended at this conference.

The Italians are then expected to repeat their claim to parity with France and may announce their own program as follows, thus completing the statements of aims by all five powers: Italy will not commit herself to any program of construction, big or little, for the next six years. She will build as circumstances compel her to do, but will agree to give notice six months before laying down any ship to the other high contracting parties of the general features of the ship proposed.

The neutralization of the Philippines idea has receded into the background of conference discussions due to the rather standoffish attitude of the Japanese at present, their spokesman explaining this morning that the subject is one of purely American domestic interest. This probably does not represent the real Japanese attitude and the Americans also, though debating the difficulties and complications, are still interested. The suggestion, if and when it comes, would come, of course, from the American side. In one informed quarter it was suggested that the superficial advantages of the scheme do not outweigh the disadvantages of bringing any new issues into this conference.

Japan's 1936 Date Is Surprise.

Probably the one real surprise to the Americans in the Japanese memorandum handed to Senator Reed was the suggestion that Japan is not in favor of scrapping battleships before 1936. This was not expected, whereas the figures the Japanese gave, or something like them, were anticipated. The Japanese stand on battleships is regarded purely as a bargaining point in order to obtain from the United States consent to discuss here the decision to restrict the size of battleships after 1936 to 25,000 tons.

The Americans are equally firm that this point must not come up now, although at this early stage in the conference it is impossible to say that large concessions will not be made on many such questions to get ultimate agreement.

The Japanese were reserved in their comment today on their new set of figures. It was gathered that they felt hurt at Mr. Stimson's suggestions to former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki last week, which did not take into account their lengthy statements of their position at Washington and here. So they have retaliated exactly in kind: America made no concessions; they make none.

Japanese Election Next Week.

The Japanese national election takes place next week.

The opposition will not be able to say the present Tokyo government is unpatriotic.

After all, pointed out an American optimist, Japan and America are only three big cruisers, ten destroyers and 40,000 tons of submarines apart and the will to agreement is clearly present on both sides. He did not add what in some British quarters is freely said—that Japan must in the end agree to whatever the United States demands in agreement with Great Britain, and there is no doubt Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacDonald are not far apart in their ideas of the size of the navy Japan ought to have.

The strongest press attack yet launched in connection with the conference here, directed against the French naval program, appears tomorrow in the organ of the Labor government, the Daily Herald.

"It would be idle to pretend," comments this newspaper, "that Tardieu's memorandum is not a heavy blow, both at the prospects and at the very conception of the naval conference."

"The purpose of the conference," the newspaper continues, "was to secure limitation and, if possible, reduction of naval armaments of the big five naval powers. The French, under guise of limitations, are coolly proposing practically to double the strength of their fleet."

THREE-POWER PACT DEMAND OF TARDIEU

Britain and U. S. Asked to Join France in Treaty to Protect Latter.

OFFICIALS HERE SILENT

By ALBERT W. FOX.

An Anglo-American-French agreement to safeguard France's security by putting teeth in the Kellogg pact is the price which Premier Tardieu demands for reducing the huge total of naval expansion which the French people regard as representing the absolute needs of France. The Tardieu statement has left no doubt in the minds of officials and legislators here that the bid for an alliance involving the United States is now a cardinal feature of the French program.

Acting Secretary of State Cotton declined to comment on either the French or Japanese statements. The uneasiness which has been manifest in the Senate was accentuated yesterday but the developments at London were described as too bewildering to comment upon.

The portion of the Tardieu statement suggesting a security alliance as a possible alternative for the French program is as follows:

"She (France) remains, as she repeatedly declared herself to be, ready to consider favorably any form of agreement for mutual guarantee of security, of which the effect would be to transform the absolute requirements of each power into relative requirements."

In connection with this pact proposal, London newspapers report that Prime Minister MacDonald, Foreign Minister Briand and Ambassador Dwight Morrow have begun conferences over means of strengthening the Kellogg pact. A diplomatic denial at the headquarters of the American delegation is taken to mean that nothing official or formal along this line has been initiated and that informal discussions should not be given undue significance.

It is suggested here that Ambassador Morrow may have been delegated by Secretary Stimson to inform the French that anything involving the United States in a European alliance would jeopardize ratification of any treaty by the Senate.

But Tardieu has already called attention to the fact that the United States, at the Washington Conference, signed a four-power "security-pact," involving the United States, the British Empire, France and Japan and their insular possessions and insular dominions in the Pacific. This pact binds the signatories to respect one another's rights in relation to their insular possessions and insular dominions in the region of the Pacific and further binds the parties to consult as to "the most efficient measures to be taken, jointly or sepraately, to meet the exigencies of the particular situation" in case such rights are threatened "by the aggressive action of any other power."

This pact, to remain in force for 10 years and then continue in force subject to termination upon 12 months' notice, was ratified by the Senate and it is understood to be Premier Tardieu's contention that the Kellogg pact might be strengthened by a treaty along the line of the Pacific pact. According to the French view, the United States could agree to confer with the European powers and join them in taking "the most efficient measures to meet the exigencies of the particular situation" without involving the United States more deeply in European problems than was the case under the Washington treaty.

America's obligation under an Anglo-French-American pact would not necessarily be the same as Great Britain's. Prime Minister MacDonald is reported to have already consulted with his cabinet relative to Premier Tardieu's security pact perusal.

Auto Accident Brings $25,000 Damage Action

Ollie Josephine Baird, of the Burlington Hotel, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court, seeking to collect $25,000 from L. Cooper Shaw, of 918 Eighteenth street northwest.

The woman alleges she was a passenger in Shaw's automobile on November 29 last when she was injured. The accident in which she says she was injured occurred on the Crain highway. Attorney Milton W. King appeared for the plaintiff.

Los Angeles, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Effie Reynolds, 43, semiinvalid, today stabbed her husband, A. H. Reynolds, 44, to death and then confessed to police. She said her husband had been unfaithful to her and was attempting to induce her to divorce him. Reynolds was stabbed in the throat as he slept.

The couple had been married eighteen years. Reynolds was employed as a stationary engineer.

He was treated at Emergency Hospital, and later taken to his home. He was working at a house on Twenty-first street between P and Q streets northwest, when the ceiling fell, police reported.

Alcohol, in Ill Repute, May Change Its Name

New York, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Manufacturers of legitimate industrial denatured alcohol, chagrined at the widespread use of their product's present designation as a synonym for outlawed liquor, are considering the adoption of a different name—perhaps "denaturol."

Capt. James P. McGovern, general counsel of the Industrial Alcohol Institute, in announcing the proposed change of terminology, explained that the word alcohol had come to be used like "rum" in newspaper headlines to designate all kinds of unlawful drinks from beer to vodka.

ARMED DRY FORCES START BIG CLEAN-UP

262 Arrested in Drvies on Gangs in Macon and Birmingham.

HIGHER-UPS ARE SOUGHT

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—With more than 200 persons already under arrest on liquor charges, Birmingham police and Jefferson County officers tonight continued their drive against an "organized band of liquor runners and racketeers," planning no letup until "higher ups" have been apprehended.

In addition to the arrests, fourteen stills had been confiscated and several hundred gallons of whisky and mash destroyed.

The campaign is centered on the source of supply, with special attention being given to fashionable suburban districts where police say the ringleaders have established themselves.

Attention also is being given to a system of "calling cards" in which only a name and a telephone number are shown and through which the customer gets in touch with the seller.

Police officials have announced that machine guns, tear bombs and sawed-off shotguns will be used if necessary to combat the "rum gang."

At least three and possibly other well-organized bootlegging gangs are operating in the city, authorities said, and the current drive is directed at the "higher-ups," who thus far have eluded arrest. The leaders were described as living in hotels and elite residential districts, directing activities of the actual rumrunners without exposing themselves.

Chief McDuff has issued orders to all hotels and restaurants in the city forbidding the serving of cracked ice, cocktail shakers and other accessories that may be used in mixing illicit beverages.

Deputies continued their raids throughout the county. Police records show that 711 persons were arrested here last month on charges of drunkenness and violating the prohibition laws, the largest number for a single month over a period of six years.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Sixty-two persons had been arrested today by Federal prohibition officers in a round-up of suspected liquor dealers here, and many more warrants remained to be served.

Preliminary hearings before the United States commissioner started at noon, and of the first 20 persons appearing 5 pleaded guilty to selling liquor, three were dismissed, and the remainder bound over to the Federal grand jury under bonds of $1,000 each.

Woman Sentenced In Murder Trial

Minimum 20-Year Term Given on Conviction in Stabbing Case.

Carrie Staten, colored, was sentenced by Justice Frederick L. Siddons in District Supreme Court yesterday to serve twenty years in jail for second degree murder in connection with the death of Robert Dowell, also colored.

Attorneys John P. Mullen and James B. Archer made a valiant fight for a new trial, but their efforts were of no avail. The woman, according to the indictment, stabbed Dowell to death on October 26, 1928, at 457 N street northwest.

The sentence given the woman is the minimum under the law. Assistant United States Attorney Walter M. Shea prosecuted the case.

Two Women Injured, Man Held in Auto Crash

Two women were injured, one seriously, and a motorist was arrested as the aftermath of a collision between two automobile last night at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Mrs. Alice Fowler, 46 years old, of Third street northwest near G street, who suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis, and Miss Ruby Fowler, 23, of the same address, who suffered minor injuries, were riding in an automobile operated by Derma P. Showard, of the Third street address. The injured were treated at Emergency Hospital. Thomas F. Martin, of Romney, W. Va., stopping at the Metropolitan Hotel, reported driver of the other car was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

BANKER OPPOSES RUM CASE REVIEW

New Yorker Seeks to Prevent Favorable Decision Going Before Supreme Court.

NORRIS SUBMITS BRIEF

(Associated Press.)

Alfred E. Norris, a New York banker, filed a brief in the Supreme Court yesterday opposing a review of the decision of Federal courts that in placing orders for liquor with a Philadelphia bootlegger he was not guilty of conspiracy to transport in violation of the prohibition laws.

The Third Circuit Court of Appeals held that transportation necessary to deliver liquor to a purchaser was not sufficient to constitute a conspiracy. The Government sought to have the Supreme Court review the decision.

Norris declared that the Government was urging the highest court to review the case because it involved a question "of great public interest and importance." He asserted that this was not sufficient ground to give the Supreme Court jurisdiction over the controversy and said the decision was not in conflict with decisions in other Federal courts, which would have been grounds for a review.

The brief declared that the decision was in accord with the ruling of the Federal courts in two other circuits, where the same question had been disposed of "in exactly the same way."

The brief argued that a purchaser does not become a felon and a party to a conspiracy to transport liquor "when all that is done is that the seller delivers to the purchaser the liquor sold him."

Suspension Urged For Two Policemen

Recommendations Made by Trial Board After Hearings.

Dismissal of two policemen was recommended to the Commissioners yesterday by the Police Trial Board. C. A. Waterman, patrol driver, First Precinct, was recommended for dismissal by the board after it heard charges that he had been guilty of conduct prejudicial to the police force as a result of his association with a woman. The policeman had been named as corespondent by the woman's husband in a divorce suit.

George L. Earle, private, Eleventh Precinct, was recommended for dismissal on charges of conduct prejudicial to the police force after the board had heard charges that he had failed to pay a debt.

Announcement of the sentences imposed by the trial board was accompanied by an announcement by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, that George C. McCarron, member of the liquor squad commanded by Sergt. Oscar Letterman, would be sent before the Police Trial Board despite his acquittal in Police Court Thursday of charges of drunken driving.

Disabled Veteran Is Awarded $7,450

Government Attorneys to Request New Trial in Case.

Arthur Marvin, of Minneapolis, Minn., yesterday was awarded a verdict of $7,450 and monthly compensation of $57.50 by a jury in District Supreme Court.

Marvin, who is said to have served ten months as an Army cook, claimed to be totally disabled. The Government brought out during the trial that since his discharge on May 5, 1919, he had received from the Veterans' Bureau the sum of $12,420.

Marvin, according to the testimony, enlisted in the Army on July 12, 1918. He was represented by Attorney Robert H. McNeill. Attorneys Annabel Hinterliter and Lawrence Lawlor, who represented the Government, announced that they will seek a new trial, and failing that will carry the case to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

LOBBY QUIZ LOOMS ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Caraway Will Question All Interested in Legislation for Power Plant.

CYANAMID MAN CALLER

(Associated Press.)

An intention to inquire fully into the activities of persons interested in Muscle Shoals legislation was expressed yesterday by Chairman Caraway, of the Senate lobby committee, in announcing that W. B. Bell, of New York, president of the American Cyanamid Co., would be called to testify.

Mr. Bell will be questioned in regard to the proposal of the cyanimid company, embodied in the Wright bill now before Congress, to lease from the Government the power and nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals.

Other witnesses expected to face the committee before the Muscle Shoals investigation is completed are Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee; J. W. Worthington, chairman of the executive committee of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, and Chester Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

After hearing testimony again yesterday from W. G. Waldo, consulting engineer of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, the committee adjourned until Tuesday when Mr. Worthington is expected to appear. He has been reported ill at Tate Springs, Tenn., but sent word that he would come to Washington after Senator Caraway had charged him with feigning illness to "dodge" the committee.

Both Mr. Worthington's association and the American Farm Bureau Federation have advocated the cyanamid company proposal for Muscle Shoals. Mr. Huston resigned as president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association shortly before he was made chairman of the Republican national committee a few months ago.

From Mr. Waldo the committee learned yesterday that he would be willing to support a measure for Government operation of Muscle Shoals if it were an improvement over the Wright bill.

Taft Read Regrets Of Supreme Court

Is Able to Sign Reply to Letter From Former Associates.

(Associated Press.)

William Howard Taft had read to him yesterday a letter from his friends on the Supreme Court bench expressing regret that illness had compelled his resignation as Chief Justice.

The afflicted jurist was able to sign a reply, which said his pleasant relations with the associate justices had been reluctantly severed only because his health no longer permitted him to go on. This was the first time that he had been able to give attention to such a matter since his return from Asheville, N. C., ten days ago.

Dr. Francis R. Hagner, the attending physician, said Mr. Taft had regained sufficient strength to sit in his bedroom half of each day. While some improvement has been reported daily, and is gratifying to his family and doctors, they do not consider him as having passed from danger or to have made any material progress toward permanent recovery.

ALUMINUM TARIFFS DEMOCRATS' TARGET

Walsh, of Montana, to Propose Amendment Lowering Duties Fixed in 1913.

COUZENS PLAN LOSES

(Associated Press.)

Notice that a drive would be started today by the Democrats to lower the existing aluminum tariffs was served in the Senate yesterday by Senator Walsh, of Montana, acting minority leader.

The announcement came at the end of a session devoted only incidentally to the tariff, which was returned to its preferred status today after several days of debate on the Hughes nomination to be Chief Justice. Senator Walsh said he would propose an amendment at the outset today to reduce the present duties of 9 cents a pound on sheet, bar and coil aluminum and 5 cents a pound on the crude product to 3½ and 2 cents, respectively. The latter were the rates in the Underwood act of 1913.

Republican Independents, who have joined with the Democrats in an attempt to keep industrial tariffs as near their present level as possible, are expected to line up generally for the aluminum reductions.

The Senate completed action yesterday on amendments to the earths, earthenware and glassware schedule, and individual amendments to the metals section will be in order today.

Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, lost an attempt to restore the present rate of 1½ cents a pound on crystalline graphite, used in the manufacture of steel crucibles and pencils. The increase to 2 cents, previously approved, thus was left in the bill.

Senator Couzens contended domestic manufacturers had to import graphite from Madagascar because they could not use the American product. Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, opposed the reduction on the ground that his State produced graphite superior to any in the world and could increase its markets if American manufacturers did not cater to "slave labor" abroad.

Senator Dale (Republican), Vermont, was sucessful in sponsoring an amendment to increase from 15 to 25 per cent the existing levy on slate, while Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, had adopted an amendment to increase the duties on children's paints.

The Massachusetts senator's substitute for the paints section would provide a new rate of 1 cent each on tubes, jars and cakes of paints when weighing in excess of 1½ pounds each, and a levy of 8½ cents an ounce on paints in bulk.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—With a holiday on Wednesday in many cities of the country, the record of business failures this week can not be compared exactly with the returns for last week. A year ago, however, a holiday also occurred in this week and the present total of 566 defaults, as reported to R. G. Dun & Co., contrasts with 467 insolvencies in the same week in 1929.

January building permits issued in 566 leading cities and towns in the country declined 17 per cent from the December total and 46 per cent from the amount reported for January, 1929, according to statistics compiled by S. W. Straus & Co.

The special meeting of stockholders of the Fix Film Corporation at which a vote will be taken on the proposed reorganization plan will be held on February 27, it was reported today.

Dow, Jones & Co reported today that the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. entered 1930 with unfilled orders approximating $65,000,000, the largest since 1921, and an increase of about 40 per cent over the amount at the start of 1929.

Plans for the dissolution of Airstocks, Inc., an investment trust specializing in securities of aeronautical companies, and sponsored by White, Weld & Co., are under consideration. A final liquidating dividend is expected to be available for distribution early in March. The company was formed early in 1929. The bankers for the company, who own more than half of the 86,257 shares outstanding, are of the opinion that the securities held should be sold and the proceeds distributed to stockholders.

17 SEIZED IN RIOT AT MAYOR'S OFFICE

200 Participate in Demonstration by Workless at Philadelphia.

BATTLE WITH POLICE

Philadelphia, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—A crowd of about 200 men and women marched on City Hall today and was halted in a skirmish with police on the north plaza of the building when several demonstrators endeavored to force their way upstairs to the office of Mayor Harry A. Mackey.

In the clash a score of marchers, including several girls, were knocked down; several policemen were tripped, some lost buttons from their uniforms; one marcher was hurt and seventeen persons, including three women, were arrested on charges of inciting to riot.

Police said they had advance warning of the march. Patrolmen were assembled outside and inside of City Hall when the demonstrants began marching about five squares away. They arrived at the north plaza of the Municipal Building, carrying placards protesting against unemployment and industrial conditions. As they marched they threw out circulars which read:

"The Communist party of the United States has called for unemployment demonstrations in every city in the country on Wednesday, February 26. Have all the unemployed join councils of the Trade Union League and join this demonstration at factory gates and civic centers."

The demonstration lasted less than 15 minutes. The police arrested those who would not leave the scene and those who engaged in arguments or physical resistance. A large crowd of shoppers and office workers was attracted by the disturbance.

One man was treated at a hospital and later arrested and held for a hearing with others tomorrow. Among those arrested was a man giving the name Edward Bender, 24, of Philadelphia. Police said he took part in a demonstration on February 1 before the Mexican Embassy in Washington.

Police Win Race And Arrest Man

Prisoner Faces Battery of Charges After Automobile Crash.

Captured by two policemen after a two-block foot race last night, Louis C. Barker, 37 years old, of Eleventh street, near Lamont street northwest, was arrested at the Second Precinct on charges of driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident and breaking glass in the street.

An automobile driven by Barker, according to police, crashed into the parked car of Jake Hess, of 2612 Seventeenth street northeast, and then ran over the pavement onto the lawn in front of 1229 Thirteenth street northwest.

Barker, police said, abandoned his car and began running from the scene. Policemen R. C. Jackson, of the Second Precinct, and F. L. Rawlinson, of the Traffic Bureau, pursued him. During the course of the race, police said, the fugitive took a bottle from his pocket and hurled it to the street. He was overtaken at Twelfth and M streets.

TEAR GAS SUBDUES TAXI STRIKE MOBS

Many Outbreaks of Violence Mark Walkout in Pittsburgh.

POLICE PATROL STREETS

Pittsburgh, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Tear gas was used by police again today to quell crowds which sought to attack strike-breaking cab drivers and cab guards. Two cabs were burned during the day and drivers and guards were stoned in different parts of the city, where cab operators have been on strike for more than a month.

The gas was released late this afternoon, police said, when persons gathered along sidewalks threatened to rush cabs as they were being moved to a garage from the East Liberty Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The East Liberty section of the city was the scene of similar disorders yesterday and extra squads of police were patrolling the street there today.

One driver was said to have suffered a possible fracture of the skull when his cab was the target for stones and bricks. He was taken to a hospital. Three other drivers and guards also were treated at hospitals for injuries suffered when their machines were attacked in sections other than East Liberty.

The brakes of a cab were released on a side street in the Oakland district and the cab ran wild, overturned in a ravine and took fire. Another cab was set on fire, police said.

Arming of deputy sheriffs who serve as guards was being considered today, Sheriff Robert Cain, of Allegheny County, said, as a possible means of halting the disorders.

The sheriff said he would ask Mayor Charles H. Kline and P. P. Walsh, police superintendent, to confer with a view to "immediate action" toward preventing further trouble.

Christian Science Lecturer Speaks

Dr. Hendrik J. De Large of The Hague Gives Views on Religion.

Christian Science teaches that for every individual, and consequently for every nation and every race, there are plenty and more than plenty of the things which make existence desirable and enjoyable, if these things are but conceived of spiritually enough, Dr. Hendrik J. De Large, C. S., of The Hague, Holland, declared in a lecture on Christian Science last night at the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

"It teaches that fear of lack and limitation is the great disturbing factor in the world," he said. "Christian Science is giving the necessary spiritual unlerstanding to overcome this fear and thereby to find spiritual satisfaction and abundance. Spiritual satisfaction can be attained and maintained by everybody."

Dr. De Large is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. He was introduced by Wilbur E. Yocum, first reader of the First Church, under whose auspices the lecture was given.

Commissoiners Urge Lighter Jury Burden

Jury duty in the District should be less onerous, the District Commissioners told Congress yesterday in a report on the pending Brandon bill to amend the District code governing the control of juries sitting in felony cases. The bill is designed to lessen the burden of jury duty, but, the Commissioners said, does not adequately meet the situation.

"The custom of locking up jurors has become extremely inconvenient to busy men, and, at times, harsh," the Commissioners said. They recommended amendment of the existing law to provide for their plan as a substitute for the pending Brand bill.

Psittacosis Germ Is Faker, London Experiments Show

British Researchers Affirm They Have Proved That Another Microbe, So Small It Passes Filters, Causes Parrot's Disease—Relation to Fowl Plague Studied.

London, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—The bacillus psittacosis, the germ supposed to cause "parrot's disease," has been revealed as an impostor by a group of workers at the London Hospital.

In the current issue of the Lancet, British medical journal, they affirm that the disease, which recently has attracted widespread attention because of outbreaks in the United States and Germany, is almost certainly due to an altogether different type of microbe. This microbe belongs to a group of filter-passing viruses that are so small their existence can be proved only when it can be shown that the blood of infected animals will infect other animals after being filtered.

The test was applied in the London Hospital, where blood from patients suffering from psittacosis was filtered and then injected into lovebirds. The birds became sick from the disease, and in turn their blood, even after filtration, proved fatal to other birds.

Guinea pigs and pigeons did not contract psittacosis under similar circumstances, but two hens that became sick nine days after inoculation are still very ill. A possible relation between psittacosis and fowl-plague is under consideration.

The investigators have little doubt that the human and the parrot strains of the virus isolated are the same. They are continuing their work.

MEN WHO TENDERED HARVEY BRIBE FREED

Trio Convicted in New York Sewer Scandal Liberated on Technicality.

NO OFFICIAL APPROACHED

New York, Feb. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The three men whom George U. Harvey, borough president of Queens, accused of trying to bribe him soon after his election in 1928, and who were convicted and sentenced to serve from four to eight years in prison, were set free today by the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn.

The justices found that because Mr. Harvey had not yet taken office when the bribe was alleged to have been offered, and because of the peculiar wording of the statutes on bribery, no crime was charged, even if it were true that Mr. Harvey was offered a $10,000 bank note. The indictments were dismissed as insufficient.

The defendants were Frank H. Berg, private detective of Far Rockaway; Albert Levin, of Kew Gardens, and Angelo Paino, of Brooklyn, millionaire sewer builder, who first achieved prominence during the sewer graft trial of former Borough President Connelly.

The trials of the three hinged on whether Paino's $10,000 bill, which passed through the hands of the other two, was a campaign fund contribution or a bribe for sewer contracts. This matter the appellate division did not consider.

The indictments were drawn under section 378 of the penal code, which prohibits giving or offering a bribe "to a person executing any of the functions of a public office."

Air Official, Pilot Die in Plane Crash

Craft Falls Near Tampa; Two Brothers Killed in Louisiana Crack-Up.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—C. William Glose, 33 years old, vice president of the Airport Development & Construction Co. of Philadelphia, and Percy Henry, cross-country pilot for the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service at Miami, were killed in an airplane crash near here today during an attempted landing.

The fliers, coming to Tampa from Miami, attempted to land in a field about 10 miles from the city to await the clearing of a haze that enveloped the municipal airport and their plane side-slipped to the ground, crushing the left wing. Glose was flying to Tampa from Miami to confer with city officials on the construction of an airport here.

Jena, La., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Two brothers, Lamar Whatley, 19 years old, and Grady Whatley, 22, were killed late today when the airplane in which they were passengers crashed near here. W. K. Davidson, the pilot of the plane, was badly burned, but is expected to recover. The ship caught fire in the air and fell into a baseball park 2 miles west of here.

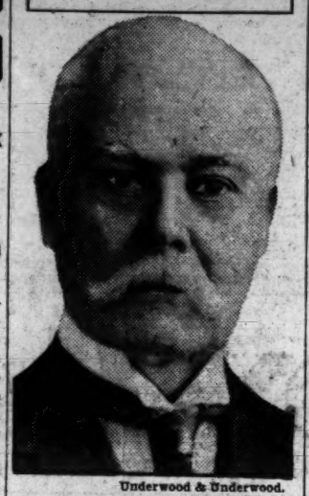
IDAHO POINEER



Underwood & Underwood.
FRED T. DUBOIS.

DUBOIS, FIRST IDAHO SENATOR, DIES HERE

Was Member of International Boundary Commission; Overwork Fatal.

BORAH IS HIS PROTEGE

Fred T. Dubois, member of the International Joint Boundary Commission and former United States senator from Idaho, died at his home, 3114 R street northwest, early yesterday morning from pneumonia.

In his seventy-ninth year, Senator Dubois had been actively engaged in work of the commission, which settles disputes between Canada and America on boundary questions. Up to last Saturday he was at his office. Overwork is said to have been a contributing cause of his death.

Senator Dubois had a remarkable career. He was born May 29, 1851, in Crawford County, Ill. His father—Jesse K. Dubois—was campaign manager for Abraham Lincoln. The Dubboises lived across the street from Lincoln, in Springfield. It was from the Great Emancipator that the future senator received his first inspiration in life.

Wending his way westward, young Dubois became a cowboy and later a United States marshal in Idaho. He was instrumental in bringing that territory into statehood. He served twice as Delegate to Congress from Idaho and had the honor of being the first United States senator from the new-born State.

Republican and Democrat.

Further, he held the unique distinction of having been elected by both major parties. He came first as a Republican and later as a Democrat to the Senate. Senator Borah is his protege.

A Yale graduate, Senator Dubois belonged to the class of '72. He seldom missed a reunion. He was interested in politics even during his college career.

In the Senate, the Idaho statesman was responsible for the great fight waged against the Mormons and is held mainly responsible for the suppression of bigamy in this country. The Mormons themselves later proved his best friends—and he theirs, it is said.

Senator Dubois, in his later years, was active in campaign management. He directed the political fortunes of Champ Clark, when he aspired to the presidential nomination, and campaigned all through the West for Woodrow Wilson, winning many of the Republican States over to the War President.

Appointed By Coolidge.

In 1924, President Coolidge appointed Senator Dubois to the International Joint Commission. He was a holdover during the Hoover administration and is said to have done his greatest work as a member of that tribunal.

While a member of the United States Senate, Mr. Dubois married Miss Adna M. Whited, of South Dakota. His widow and two daughters survive him. They are the Misses Elizabeth and Toussaint Dubois.

Senator Dubois was the first settler of Blackfoot, Idaho, and there he maintained his home. His house was the first built in that city. It contains the largest private library in the State. Recently, he donated to the Idaho Historical Society the pen used by President Harrison in signing the document that made Idaho a State. The same society is now instrumental in a movement to make the old Dubois home in Blackfoot a memorial to the first senator.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Final Post Cooking Class Hears How to Pare Budget

Mrs. Northcross Suggests Many Ways to Reduce Food Bills by Careful Market Planning at Closing Session in Belasco Theater.

Many important suggestions were given to Washington housewives on food expenditures from the family budget by Mrs. Frances T. Northcross at the closing session of the Washington Post Cooking School at the Belasco Theater yesterday afternoon.

A family of four, Mrs. Northcross said, may, by careful planning, be able to have well-balanced meals of great variety at an expenditure of from $12 to $15 a week. She called attention to fluctuation in market prices at various seasons of the year.

The cost of the meal depends upon the cook, and it is very essential to have good cooking, she declared. The advantage of buying larger packages, rather than small ones, was stressed as an effective help in keeping within the budget allowance. Those who have a narrow food budget must avoid buying fruits and vegetables out of season, the lecturer warned. She advocated the addition of canned fruits and vegetables to the market list to eliminate cost and provide variety in the menu.

Cheaper cuts of meat, if well cooked and attractively served, can also be a real means of keeping down food expenditure and also providing the family with savory and healthful foods. Waste in trimming meats is very high, while some of the cuts which require no trimming are much cheaper in the long run.

"Fish is a valuable part of the weekly menus," Mrs. Northcross said, as she demonstrated baking a fish while her audience looked on. Fish is rich in proteins which add no extra burden to the digestion, she explained. The value of proper seasoning was also pointed out by Mrs. Northcross, who favored the use of onion in small rather than large portions in preparing foods.

The recipes used in the demonstrations yesterday included:

Baked Fish.

Clean, stuff and sew up. Rub with shortening, dust with flour, salt and pepper; lay in well-greased pan or put strips of bacon in pan and lay fish on the strips. In order to aid in handling the fish, place a rack with cheese cloth over it that fish may be more easily lifted when baked. Dot flesh with shortening, bake fish in oven 400 degrees 30 minutes to 1 hour, according to size. Baste often

Mashed Potatoes.

Prepare potatoes as usual. While mashing them and before adding any milk or shortening, add one teaspoon of baking powder to every quart (2 pounds) of potatoes. They will be whiter and tastier and of a delicate smoother texture.

MACARONI SALAD.

2 cups cooked macaroni
1 dill pickle chopped fine
1 chopped green pepper
1 cup celery or cabbage
1 small onion chopped fine
1 pimento chopped fine
Salt, pepper and lemon juice to taste.

Mix above ingredients with 1 cup mayonnaise, pack in ring mold and chill. Serves 12.

GOLD CAKE.

2½ cups sifted self-rising flour
¾ cup shortening
¾ cup milk
1¼ cups sugar,
8 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored
½ teaspoon lemon extract

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and sift together three times. Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add lemon extract. Bake in three greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Put layers together with orange marmalade and cover top and sides with frosting.

ORANGE MUFFINS.

2 cups sifted self-rising flour
2-3 cup sugar
4 tablespoons shortening
¾ cup orange juice
Grated rind of 1 orange
2 eggs, well beaten
¾ teaspoon salt

Sift flour once, add baking powder and sift again. Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, then flour alternately with orange juice and rind, a small amount at a time. Beat well after each addition. Fold in 1 cup of grapenuts. Bake in hot greased muffin pans in oven 425 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Makes 18 muffins.

ALL-ROUND ICING

2½ cups sugar
2 egg whites
½ cup syrup
1½ teaspoons vanilla
½ cup water.

Combine sugar, syrup and water. Cook to 235 to 240 degrees, or soft ball stage. Pour slowly over the stiffly beaten whites, beating constantly, add vanilla and beat until almost cold. This icing can be kept in covered jar for a week. If necessary soften with boiling water.

TIMBALES.

2-3 cup self-rising flour.
1 egg.
½ cup milk.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 teaspoons sugar.
1 tablespoon melted shortening.

Blend sugar with egg, adding milk, pouring over dry ingredients, making smooth batter and fry in deep fat, using timbale irons, which must be heated with shortening.

SANDWICHES.

Demonstrated from platform.

CRANBERRY SAUCE.

Prepare as usual in proportion of 1 quart of cranberries to 2 cups water. Cook until berries are tender. If preferred clear, rub through sieve to take out seeds and skins. Return to the fire, adding to every quart of fruit 1 cup of sugar (instead of the usual 2 cups) and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Cook only till the sugar is dissolved. Chill before serving. This cranberry sauce will be sweet and fresh flavored, with fine, clear color.

PINEAPPLE-MERINGUE CAKE.

½ cup shortening.
½ cup sugar.
4 egg yolks
½ cup self-rising flour.
4 tablespoons milk.
2 tablespoons cake flour.
¼ teaspoon salt.

Cream the shortening and sugar together, separate the eggs, add the yolks, well beaten, and mix thoroughly. Add the flour, which has been sifted before measuring, alternately with the milk. Sift the remaining 2 tablespoons of flour with the baking powder and salt and add last, mixing thoroughly. Pour into two 8-inch round layer cake pans and add:

MERINGUE TOPPING.

4 egg whites.
¾ cup sugar.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
¾ cup chopped nut meats.

Beat the egg whites to a froth and then add a light sifting of the sugar, continuing to add some while beating until all of it has been added gradually. The meringue should hold a point when the beater is drawn out of it. Then add the vanilla and spread the meringue on top of each of the unbaked layers. Sprinkle the chopped nutmeats on top of the meringue. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes at 325 to 350 degrees F. Allow to cool, then remove from the pans and fill with:

PINEAPPLE FILLING.

1 cup whipping cream.
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained.
1½ tablespoons powdered sugar.
¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Place one layer, meringue side down on a cake plate. Whip the cream, add the powdered sugar, drained pineapple and vanilla. Spread this filling on the first layer. Then place the other layer on top of the pineapple filling, meringue side up.

PERJURY CASE FIGHT WAGED ON AGE ISSUE

that Meville at that time had used the alias Carson in procuring the license to wed Miss Knecttle and also that he had given his age as 33 whereas it is said to be 23.

On these developments the State lodged a perjury charge, which resulted in his subsequent indictment. John C. Gall, his attorney, has moved that the count in the indictment as to his age be stricken out, which automatically stayed the trial, scheduled for last Tuesday.

Mr. Gall will contend that the allegation as to the falsification of the age is immaterial, arguing that had Melville been under 21 and had he given a fictitious age to obtain the license, he could be prosecuted, but as he was already past the age of 21, and therefore privileged to obtain a license, the fictitious age is immaterial.

Mr. Gall and his associate, J. M. Boardman, will further argue that a man may change his name without permission of the court. The court permission, he will say, is enabled by the statute which he interprets as being a permissive but not mandatory provision.

$150,000 Gem Trunk Is Stolen From Alley

Taken from a railroad station to the hotel on a baggage truck, the trunk was left in the alley for a few minutes. Shortly afterward it was reported missing. The trunk was the property of J. Crohn, of New York, salesman for the Hugo Oppenheim Co.

SALESMAN IS HELD ON MODEL'S CHARGE

advertisement for a lingerie model, and that when being interviewed by the man he asked her to disrobe.

Miss Swift, police said, was one of several girls who were interviewed by Arone during the past three days. The majority of these applicants were treated cordially and invited to return for a further interview, police learned. Some of them complied with Arone's request to disrobe and were measured, the police learned.

Arone conducted his final interview yesterday morning when a policewoman visited his offices under the pretense of applying for a job as model for lingerie wares. The policewoman said that she would consider the proposition, prepared to leave, whereupon Arone grabbed her in his arms, the policewoman reported. She knocked him down.

Detective Sergt. Charles Weber was warming his feet in a waiting room, being fully aware of the fake application. Upon hearing the commotion, he interfered and placed Arone under arrest. After being questioned at police headquarters, Arone was taken to the Fifth Precinct where he was being held last night in lieu of $500 bond.

Detective Weber said that Arone had represented himself as being affiliated with a well-known silk mills concern and posed as specialist in lingerie. He got word to the applicants through a local employment agency. He was actually employed by a well-known shoe polish manufacturing company, Weber said. The girls who applied for the position were told at the employment agency that they must be blondes, it was learned.

CONFERENCE URGES GREAT FALLS BRIDGE

Inter-Federation Group Has Two Plans for Structure Shown in Meeting.

CRAMTON BILL IS CITED

Two plans for construction of a bridge at Great Falls were suggested in resolutions of the interfederation conference at a meeting last night at the United States Chamber of Commerce.

One of these plans recommends that all mention of a bridge be left out of the Cramton bill. This would automatically restore the charter to the Great Falls Bridge Co. for a toll bridge. An amendment to the bill at present specifies that a toll bridge shall not be built. The other plan recommends that the bill be amended to provide for definite action by the Federal Government for the building of a free bridge at an early date.

The resolution also called for the executive committee of the interfederation to confer with senators and representatives interested in the Great Falls project. The resolution was presented by W. B. Armstrong, secretary and treasurer of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, and it was seconded by James G. Yadin, of the Federation of Citizens Associations of the District.

A spirited appeal by Dr. S. M. Johnson, general director of the Lee Highway Association, moved the association to indorse in principle the bill providing for construction by the Federal Government of a highway from the north and west sides of Fort Myer reservation to connect with the Memorial Bridge across the Potomac.

Col. A. B. Barber, of the Montgomery County Federation, presided at the meeting.

Baltimore Police Asked to Find Coed

Cheverly Student, Missing Since February 4, Is Object of Search.

Baltimore police yesterday were asked to aid in a search for Miss Jane Sedgwick Duvall, 20 years old, of Cheverly, Md., a student at the University of Maryland, College Park, who has been missing since February 4. Miss Duvall is reported to have been seen last in the company of her mother Mrs. Mary G. Duvall, in the vicinity of Tenth and G streets, this city.

Miss Duvall parted with her mother apparently to return to College Park. The college authorities have not seen Miss Duvall since February 1, when she left school at the end of the day. She was a member of the sophomore class and was registered as a day pupil, returning home each day after classes.

Inspector W. S. Shelby, who sought the assistance of the Baltimore police, said she may have boarded a train for Baltimore. He suggested that the hospitals in Baltimore be checked.

At the time of her disappearance she was carrying an overnight bag. She wore a blue felt hat and a gray tweed coat with brown fur trimmings.

Hudson, former disbursing agent of the United States Veterans Hospital here, was sentenced to five years in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta and fined $3,000 following his conviction by a jury in Federal court late today on a charge of embezzling $4,113.60 in funds belonging to the hospitals and to veterans.

The jury returned the verdict one hour after receiving the case.

Portuguese General Dies.

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Gen. Moraes Sarmento, considered by many as Portugal's greatest soldier and military writer, died here today. He was president of the Portuguese Military College and a former member of the cabinet.

AMENDMENT PLANS GREAT FALLS BRIDGE

Government Would Expend $1,500,000 Under Glass Proposal.

PASSAGE PROSPECT DIM

The Federal Government would build a $1,500,000 free bridge across the Potomac River at or near Great Falls under an amendment to the Cramton Park bill introduced yesterday by Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia.

The Glass amendment would supplant two amendments written into the Cramton bill when it passed the House. One of these, the LaGuardia amendment, prohibits the building of a toll bridge at Great Falls, and the other, the Schafer amendment, provides that there shall be a free bridge there.

What Glass did yesterday was to go Schafer one better and provide that the Federal Government put up $1,500,000 for the span.

Amendment Seems Doomed.

The prospect is, however, that the Glass amendment eventually will be killed and that a private company will put up a toll bridge at Great Falls.

The Great Falls Bridge Co. was authorized to build the toll bridge in a bill passed in the last Congress and was nearly ready to proceed with construction when the Cramton bill recently was amended so as to prohibit such a bridge.

In the beginning the Cramton bill had nothing to say about the bridge. It simply provided for the acquisition of park lands in the District of Columbia and for the development of a George Washington Memorial Parkway on both sides of the Potomac, from Mount Vernon to Great Falls, on the Virginia side and from Fort Washington to Great Falls on the Maryland side.

Would Lend $16,000,000.

Under its terms the Federal Government would lend the District $16,000,000 for park lands and expend $7,500,000 for the Virginia and Maryland project, provided those States matched that sum with appropriations of their own.

The Glass amendment is the only provision that calls upon the Federal Government to pay the full cost of any part of the Great Falls program—that is, for the building of a bridge—and for that reason it is expected to meet opposition.

Civic associations in nearby Maryland have gone on record as favoring the toll bridge unless a free bridge can be had immediately, taking the position that a toll bridge would at least be better than none.

Courthoue Plans To BeSessionTopic

Montgomery Subcommittee-County Building Group Will Meet Tuesday.

The subcommittee on architectural designs of the Montgomery County Courthouse building committee will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Bethesda County Building, it was announced yesterday by Capt. Chester C. Wells, chairman. The meeting is called to further consider the design of the courthouse exterior, which has been approved by the Fine Arts Commission.

The commission had objected to the use of Indiana limestone for the construction of the exterior, claiming that brick with stone trimmings would be more in keeping with the surrounding structure. The subcommittee, however, felt that the limestone front would be more effective and a slightly changed plan was resubmitted to the commission, which was approved.

Members of the subcommittee are George P. Sacks, Bethesda; Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, Alta Vista; George E. Hamilton, Rockville pike, and H. F. Taff, Takoma Park.

GARAGE EXCAVATED IN SLAIN BOY HUNT

Prisoners Insist They Do Not Know Where Melvin Horst Was Buried.

EACH ACCUSES OTHER

Wooster, Ohio, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—The entire official forces of Wayne County will be concentrated tomorrow in the hunt for the body of Melvin Horst, 4, "little boy blue" of Orrville, Ohio, missing since December 27, 1928, if two men now held here for questioning fail to reveal the location of the body, Special Prosecutor Walter J. Mougey said tonight.

While Mougey and Prosecutor Marion Graven continued to interrogate Earl Conald and Charles Hanna, each of whose signed statements lay the alleged killing to the hand of the other, numerous searching parties were following unreliable clews tonight in the hope of unearthing the body of Melvin. The statements by Conald and Hanna said Melvin was killed in the Frank Frye private garage in Orrville. No motive was given and both men denied knowledge of what had been done with the body.

Reports of repudiation of the statements by both men, emanating from Sheriff Clark Shearer, were treated lightly by Prosecutor Graven.

Mougey inserted a new angle in the case today when he advanced the theory that perhaps Conald and Hanna were telling the truth when they said they did not know the location of the body. Mougey advanced the theory that a third man was involved and that this person buried the child.

While Graven was stating that the Frye garage would be the starting point of the hunt, parties already were engaged in routing up boards in the building and digging in nearby fields. Sugar Creek, into which a sewer from the Frye property empties, became one of the principal points of interest in the hunt today. A pond near the edge of Orrville, adjacent to the creek, also was being dragged.

Conald and Hanna were being held for investigation and formal charges have not been placed against them. Graven said that if any attempt was made to remove the men from jail by habeas corpus action, however, charges would be filed immediately.

Junior Hanna, son of Charles, whose early stories of the disappearance of Melvin sent Elias Arnold and his son, Arthur, to prison, but who were acquitted on a second trial for child stealing, gave the officers the clew which led to the statements of Hanna and Conald.

Sister of Senator In Race for Office

Mrs. C. F. Foltz, Republican, to Run for Governor of California.

Los Angeles, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, sister of United States Senator Samuel Shortridge, of California and for 20 years a lawyer here, today announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor of California.

She cited her legal experience, her study of State affairs and her participation in them as sufficient background for a serious campaign by her.

Speaking of other Republican candidates, she said she admired Burton Fitts, now district attorney of Los Angeles County, but believed "he is too young a man for the office of governor." The present Governor of California, C. C. Young, has accomplished "nothing of importance in his administration," she asserted.

Mrs. Foltz is especially well known for her activity in establishing the present system of pardons and paroles in California and obtaining the right for women to appear in court as counsel. She is a widow and makes her home here.

Democrats Strive For Florida Unity

Leaders Make No Mention of Bolters, but Stress Coming Election.

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—After one of the most harmonious meetings in years, leaders of Florida Democracy tonight were en route home to carry a message of party unity in the forthcoming June primaries.

As had been predicted prior to the meeting, there was no mention of those Democrats who voted for Herbert Hoover in the last presidential election, nor was the matter of holding a State convention considered.

A resolution was adopted declaring that the terms and conditions on which the legal electors shall be declared and taken as proper members of the Democratic party of Florida and entitled to vote, shall be "that they believe in the principles of the Democratic party and will support and vote for the nominees of the party in the ensuing general election." Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, representative for the Fourth Florida District, was the morning session keynote speaker, predicting "a future as glorious as the past" for the party.

Princeton to Face Debaters of G. W.

Capital Team Will Uphold Negative Side Here Tonight.

The atmosphere of a court room will prevail at a debate tonight between George Washington and Princeton Universities at the former. The query is "Resolved, That the nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament except such forces as are necessary for police purposes." George Washington will uphold the negative.

Under the Oregon system of debate, which will be used probably for the first time in intercollegiate debate in Washington, the three men on each team will be designated witness, lawyer and pleader. Each witness will present the constructive case for his side in a 15-minute speech. Each lawyer will then cross-examine the witness for the opposing side. The pleaders will then sum up the positions of their respective teams, rebut the arguments of the opposition and make the final plea for their side.

The Princeton team is composed of H. P. Abbott, H. F. Leary and J. C. Schenck. The George Washington debaters are Norman R. Hagen, Charles Laughlin and Woodfin L. Butte.

Howards Quit Residence at Embassy Here

Retiring Envoy and Wife to Stay at Canadian Legation.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard were the guests for whom Mr. and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, of the embassy staff, entertained at dinner last night.

Sir Esme and Lady Isabella had Mr. Alastair MacDonald as a luncheon guest yesterday, the son of the Prime Minister of Great Britain sharing with them their last meal at the embassy. From today until their departure for New York they will be guests of the Minister of Canada and Mrs. Massey at the legation. Delayed on his trip from the West Coast by airplane, Mr. MacDonald had missed a more formal luncheon arranged by the British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard in his honor.

Mr. MacDonald is telling with gusto of an amusing incident of his flight East. The plane having run into bad weather and made a forced landing in a field near a small town, the inhabitants of the village rushed out to greet Mr. MacDonald and presented him with a small green enameled tea pot filled with the steaming beverage which means so much to the typical Britisher.

Not only grateful, but deeply touched, Mr. MacDonald carefully wrapped up the tea pot and arrived in Washington carrying it under his arm. This was the first of his possessions which he unpacked and it occupies a conspicuous place on a table in his room at Wardman Park Hotel.

After an all-too-brief visit in the Capital, the prime minister's son will leave town today for New York and will "go on the air" tonight.

The Ambassador of Italy and Donna Antoinetta de Martino entertained at luncheon at the embassy yesterday, their guests including the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Chief of Staff, U. S. A., and Mrs. Summerall; Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Harry L. Gilcrist, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Edward L. King, Col. and Mrs. Robert C. Foy, the retiring military attache of the Italian embassy, Brig. Gen. Augusto Villa, and his successor, Col. Marco Pennaroli; the Second Counselor of the Embassy and Signora Catalani, and Count Alberto Marchetti, Capt. di Villarosa, Comdr. Silvio Scaroni, Signor Leonardo Vitetti, Signor Carlo Soardi, and Signor Eugenio Bonardelli, all of the embassy staff.

LESS UNEMPLOYMENT.

The report of Secretary of Labor Davis that employment is now taking an upward trend is gratifying to every one. Authorities have disagreed as to how serious the unemployment has been this winter. No figures will be available, but the Department of Labor refers to a "tremendous idleness" during January. Conditions have been particularly serious in New York, due apparently to an influx of workers from the country as much as from reduced activity. Winter always brings a certain amount of seasonal unemployment, but the level has been below normal this year.

Reports to the Department of Labor indicate that employment will be back to normal within the next two or three months. The concerted efforts of industry and labor to avert what might have been a serious economic depression could not prevent a slight sag, but it appears that the country will be normally busy much sooner than would have been possible without their voluntary cooperation.

With the opening of spring a new era of industrial and building activity will begin. The stock market is gradually recovering from its shakedown. Credit is plentiful. Confidence that was shaken by the stock market collapse has been restored, and many projects that were held up because of uncertainty during the early winter months may now go ahead. Already some of the basic industries, including steel and automobiles, have begun to expand to their former level of output.

Unemployment due to more extensive use of machinery continues to be a problem, though in the minds of most economists it is but temporary. New energies absorb the extra workers, and wages remain high. The soundness of the economic structure in the United States has been demonstrated by the recovery from what might have been a disastrous period of depression. There is every reason to believe that that recovery will be complete and that the year 1930 will be prosperous.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION.

Government commissions, the membership of which is made up of Cabinet officers, are not as a rule, competent to administer the details of legislation. The reason is patent. Cabinet officers have regular duties to perform requiring their full attention. The work of such commissions generally is carried on as creditably as can be expected under the circumstance by a permanent staff, but with the heads able to give at best only perfunctory attention to the work, the commission is apt to suffer for want of direction. This fact, no doubt, led Senator Couzens to prepare a bill that will be introduced at an early date providing for the reorganization of the Federal Power Commission.

The Power Commission is charged with administering the Federal water power act. As at present constituted it is composed of the Secretaries of War, Interior and Agriculture. The Couzens bill would amend the first and second sections of the act, substituting three appointed civilians for the Cabinet officers and allowing them free scope to employ engineers, technical advisers and assistant personnel. Appointment of persons even remotely interested in power companies would be prohibited. Commissioners would receive salaries of $10,000 a year.

Senator Couzens plans at a later date to introduce a measure providing for Federal regulation and control of the interstate transmission, distribution and sale of power. In some respects it would seem that this measure should be tied with the reorganization bill. The regulatory measure, however, will not be drafted or enacted speedily. While the interstate transmission, distribution and sale of power demands Federal regulation, so many elements are involved in any program of control that exhaustive hearings must be held on the subject, and the regulatory measure must be written with the utmost care so that the interests of both consumer and producer may be adequately safeguarded. The Couzens reorganization bill, therefore, should be enacted without regard to the more important question of Government regulation. It would substitute for the part-time board that now administers the Federal water power act a commission that would devote its entire attention to this important matter. The opinion of full-time commissioners, gleaned from experience with the present law, should be of invaluable assistance in framing the regulatory measure.

RETIREMENT LEGISLATION.

Enactment of satisfactory retirement legislation for Federal employes is hampered by the lack of unity among the employes themselves. When the Senate suddenly passed the Dale-Lehlbach bill, which would increase the maximum annuity from $1,000 to $1,200 and lower the ages at which employes in the various classes may retire, there was hope that the measure might be passed without difficulty in the House and signed by the President. But the bill was not entirely satisfactory, and attempts are being made to improve upon it.

The National Federation of Federal Employes has expressed approval of Representative Lehlbach's new bill, which would base annuities of each employe on his own contributions to the fund. But the joint conference on retirement concludes that the best interests of Government workers would be served by the enactment of the Dale-Lehlbach bill. This division of opinion is unfortunate at a time when Congress seems disposed to liberalize retirement legislation.

Unified support of some constructive measure would no doubt result in its adoption. By supporting opposing bills the employes are contributing to the defeat of all retirement legislation. Either of the plans before the House would be an improvement over the present situation. The Dale-Lehlbach bill is an emergency measure to give immediate relief while a more comprehensive system is being worked out. A large group of employes feel that if this bill is enacted, Congress will not consider any other retirement legislation for several years. President Hoover is reported to be favorable to liberal retirement provisions, such as are contained in the new Lehlbach bill, and the outlook for its enactment is promising if it should be substituted for the measure passed by the Senate.

The welfare of thousands of employes is at stake. It is no time to allow personal prejudices or snap judgment to dictate what course shall be taken. The situation should be studied from every angle by each group in an effort to arrive at a program which will bring the greatest benefits to the greatest numbers. If this is the proper time to replace the emergency Dale-Lehlbach bill with a more comprehensive plan of retirement, the opportunity should not be allowed to slip away because of dissension in the ranks of Federal employes.

A BAIL BOND BUREAU.

Bail bonding is an enigma in virtually every State. Since the courts have been congested with prohibition cases, the problem has become especially difficult. Bonds from irresponsible persons are frequently accepted, but the most common evil is the "gouging" of prisoners, who must either pay exorbitant commissions for bail or remain in jail. The common system, or lack of system, is satisfactory to neither the courts nor the individuals under prosecution.

To justify their exorbitant rates many unscrupulous bondsmen make a practice of suggesting to their clients that they are in a position to influence the judgment of the court. In some cases it has been found that they do exert an influence on the clerk who draws up the complaint, or on witnesses. An inference of bribery and corruption is inescapable under these circumstances.

Bail is sometimes furnished by unlicensed bondsmen. Many professional bondsmen try to escape payment of the bond when the defendant fails to appear for trial. It is a common practice to carry such cases to court, thus involving the State in considerable expense.

The problem has been particularly acute in New York. Abuse and corruption growing out of this type of bonding have led to the establishment of a central bail bonding bureau. This bureau is being formed by nine of the strongest surety companies of the city under direction of the superintendent of insurance. The bureau will furnish bail at 3 per cent, with all the companies sharing equally in profits and liabilities. Companies or individuals not connected with the bureau will retain the right to furnish bail, but there will be no excuse for any one paying exorbitant rates. The State will have less difficulty in collecting bail when defendants default. Operation of this bureau will be watched with interest.

AIR ACCIDENT PUBLICITY.

The speech which Col. Clarence A. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aviation, delivered before the Exchange Club in New York vigorously defending the Government's policy regarding aircraft accident investigations, precipitated debate in the Senate on the Bingham bill and the Bratton resolution. The Bratton resolution would compel the Department of Commerce to make public its detailed findings in aviation accidents from 1926 to the present time. The Bingham bill would, in effect, amend the air commerce act to protect the Government against claims for damages on the part of those who might be injured by the findings of the department, to enable the department to compel the attendance of witnesses by subpena and to make its findings privileged from the point of law.

Senator Bingham points out that these three features were omitted from the air commerce act through oversight. He claims that the policy adopted, namely, of making public the findings in accident investigations only in summarized form, is the only policy that could have been adopted under the circumstances. Since the Government has not been able to compel witnesses to testify, it has been able to obtain information only by promising to treat the testimony as confidential. If detailed findings had been made public the sources of information would speedily have dried up. In addition, it is his opinion that the Government would have been liable to suits for damages on the part of those adversely affected by publication of detailed findings had such a policy been pursued. Senator Bratton, however, holds that the air commerce act specifies that the Department shall make public detailed findings, and that its failure to do so has constituted evasion of the law and violation of a plain mandate of Congress. It is on this ground that he has introduced his resolution.

If the Department of Commerce has evaded the law it should be dealt with directly. The issue should not be confused with the need for the legislation introduced by Senator Bingham. Whether or not the department has violated the mandate of Congress, the fact that it needs facilities for and protection in conducting its investigations of accidents equal to those possessed by the Interstate Commerce Commission can not be disputed.

FRED T. DUBOIS.

A stalwart figure of the West disappears in the death of former Senator Fred T. Dubois, of Idaho. He went to that territory in 1880, and while a delegate in Congress led the movement for admission of the territory as a State. He was its first senator, beginning his term in 1891, as a Republican. In the historic national convention of 1896 at St. Louis he strenuously opposed the gold-standard platform, and withdrew when it was adopted. He took his logical place in the Democratic ranks, and was reelected to the Senate, serving until 1907.

Senator Dubois was as active and skillful in Democratic politics as he had been in Republican. He was a warm friend of Champ Clark, and took command of the Clark forces at the Baltimore convention in 1912. If William J. Bryan had been as faithful as Fred Dubois, Clark would have been nominated. Clark was one of those rare candidates for the Presidency who have been defeated for the nomination after receiving a majority of the votes. The two-thirds rule was his undoing, as it may be the undoing of other great Democrats hereafter.

In later years Senator Dubois served as a member of the International Joint Commission, having charge of questions affecting Canada and the United States.

In private as well as in public life Senator Dubois won and held the affection of hosts of friends. His innate courtesy tempered an ardent and tenacious fighting quality, and no foe, however aroused by Senator Dubois' thrusts, ever questioned his sincerity or public spirit. Idaho may well be proud in having given Fred Dubois to the Nation.

A PLAN FOR PARITY IN CAPITAL SHIPS

By COMMANDER H. H. FROST, U. S. N.

The reverberations from the American proposal to build a new battleship still echo and reecho among the world's capitals. They have not contributed to the cause of naval limitation. Only one thing is certain: It is highly desirable to deduce a fair solution of the capital ship question without building a new American battleship and without asking Great Britain to scrap any of her newer ships.

We believe that this is possible. We suggest a definite proposal. This is the allotment of total standard tonnages of capital ships until 1936 as follows: Great Britain, 475,000; United States, 475,000; Japan, 285,000. This gives exactly the well-known 5-5-3 ratio.

The execution of the plan is simplicity itself: First, each navy scraps such capital ships as it chooses to get under the allotted total. Second, it may then add weight to its remaining ships by the generally approved method of modernization to reach its alloted total, provided that no ship shall exceed 35,000 tons.

Apply these simple provisions to the case of the British navy. The admiralty has agreed to scrap its five oldest vessels. Its reconstruction program provides for adding under water antitorpedo bulges and making other alterations to all five vessels of the Queen Elizabeth class. After this scrapping and modernization the total standard tons of British capital ships would be 474,750—or just under the figure allotted.

We believe that the British do not desire the further appreciable modernization of any of their remaining ten capital ships. The five vessels of the Royal Sovereign class already have been refitted and bulged. The Repulse and Renown also have been entirely reconstructed with great addition of weight. The Hood was specially designed to apply the lessons of the Battle of Jutland and already displaces 42,100 tons and is by far the largest in the world. The Rodney and Nelson, of course, are the newest battleships afloat. Therefore, 475,000 standard tons should be satisfactory to the British.

The United States has proposed the scrapping of its three oldest battleships. It has announced its intention to modernize the three vessels of the Idaho class by the addition of 3,000 tons to each. After the completion of this scrapping and modernization our total will be 462,500 standard tons. This permits 12,500 tons for additional modernization. We could apply this to the modernization of some or all the five ships of the Tennessee and Maryland classes or to increase the extent of reconstruction of the Idaho class beyond that now planned. Without attempting to go into technical details, it is certain that we could use all or most of these 12,500 extra tons to great advantage.

Japan has agreed to scrap one ship. We presume that it will be a battle cruiser of the Kongo type, because these are her smallest and oldest ships. One of these vessels already had been modernized. The other two are now awaiting or in process of reconstruction. The scrapping of one and the modernization of the three remaining battle cruisers would place their total at 272,070 standard tons. The remaining 12,930 tons could be applied with advantage to the modernization of their six battleships or to increase the extent of modernization of the battle cruisers.

As a final check on the fairness of this proposition we must apply the age factor. After the scrapping has been accomplished the American ships will average about two months newer than the British and ten months newer than the Japanese vessels. This is so near an equality that no complaint on this ground can be justified.

When all navies have reached the assigned totals by modernization, it follows that the average size of the individual ships of each fleet will be exactly the same—31,666 tons. The addition of 3,000 tons to the Idaho class, as already contemplated, will give us three ships as large as the Rodney and Nelson. If we apply our 12,500 extra tons to the five vessels of the Tennessee and Maryland classes we could bring them all to 34,640 tons.

If we can effect equality in total standard tonnage, number of ships, average size of ships, average age of ships we bring the fleets as close to parity as is humanly possible. We must assume that all navies are equally efficient in the design and construction of their ships. Any attempt to balance such diverse factors as numbers, sizes and ranges of guns, thickness and extent or armor, speed, underwater protection and plane carrying ability in the attempt to prove superiority of design by another navy can do nothing but obstruct a limitation.

In our opinion, the above simple plan would reduce the capital ships of the three navies to the 5-5-3 ratio. It avoids any building of new ships. It permits all navies to scrap their oldest ships. It would result in substantial economy. It would permit further reductions to be effected in 1936, if then desired. It would further the cause of limiting naval armaments and thus contribute to international good feeling.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

A few days ago Granny found one of my letters to you and was much alarmed. "Don't scold the poor child so much," said she; 'you'll have her thinking everything she does is wrong."

I thought of that yesterday as we were getting out of the car and you called my attention to a smudge of grease on my chin—a smear of black that came from a glove that got it from a steering wheel that made contact with a messy mechanic.

If you hadn't told me about it, everybody on the street would have grinned at me and my embarrassment would have increased at every step until I glanced in a window mirror and discovered the cause of their amusement.

When you dress to go out in public, you may appreciate my telling you how nice you look, but you never ask if you look nice.

"Does the powder show?" is your first query. "Does this hat look all right with this dress?" "Are my nails good enough?"

It's service you want, not flattery.

And the only way I can serve you is to call your attention to the faults that might embarrass you in public.

That's the way I try to serve you in my letters.

They wouldn't be worth anything to you if I filled them with compliments.

When I remind you of your mistakes and call your attention to imperfections and warn you against pitfalls, I am a rheumatic old soldier back from the wars preparing a young knight for conflict.

You are putting on your armor to go adventuring in the world, and I fail in my duty if I don't examine helmet and beaver, breastplate and greave, and show you every weak spot that might expose you to hurt.

You and I agin the world, Honey; and it's my job to equip you so well the world can't embarrass or discomfort you.

I wouldn't be much of a dad if I let you leave home with a hole in your stocking.

Granny may think me an old scold, but I won't lose any sleep over her opinion while you continue to make use of the same lap and shoulder when you feel the need of a good cry.

So long as we understand one another, and no chinks appear in your armor, nothing else matters very much. Love, DAD.

THE SURPLUS FUND.

When business meetings I attend
I hear no word of dividend,
But learn the cash I hoped to win
The surplus fund has gathered in.

The president reports: "Last year
We made a million dollars clear."
Then by this news I'm fairly stunned:
"We've put it in the surplus fund!"

So to my creditors I say:
"I'm sorry that I can not pay
This bill for which I'm being dunned,
My cash is in the surplus fund."

Think not I whimper or complain;
The small investor's howl is vain,
And small investors proud should be
That growing surplus fund to see.

They tell me that I own a share
In all the gold that's gathered there,
But surplus funds, however large,
Won't pay the grocer's weekly charge.

I'll bet that cash I'll never see,
But when my last day comes to me
And I am lying moribund,
'Twill still be in the surplus fund.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

POLITENESS ON THE HIGH SEAS.

The major powers can not agree to abolish the submarine, it is announced, but will "humanize" their operations. In other words, the U-boats will be more polite. There may even be a book of submarine etiquette by some naval Emily Post. Questions bound to arise are:

1. Should a submarine speak to a vessel to which it has not been introduced?

2. What should the well-dressed submarine skipper wear (a) when sinking a ship in the morning, (b) in the afternoon, (c) at night?

3. Is it proper, in fact, for a submarine to pay informal calls before noon?

4. On what occasions is it considered imperative for a submarine to rise?

5. Is it ever excusable for a merchantman to keep a U-boat waiting?

6. Is it ever good manners for a submarine to cancel a sinking after sending out announcements?

7. What are the correct forms of apology to steamship tourists whose vessel has been sunk under them?

8. How long should a submarine captain know a merchant ship before torpedoing it?

9. How should a gentleman help a single lady out of the ocean? A married lady? A widow?

10. What is the proper greeting to a strange ship by a well-bred submarine? Is "Haven't I seen you some place before?" or "Pardon me, but didn't I meet you once in the English Channel?" ever permissible?

* * * *

Submarines, several naval powers insist, are all right if they know the rules of good behavior and are not rough and uncouth. The trouble with those used in the last war was that they had no manners.

* * * *

This led to considerable hard feeling, which all the naval powers are now anxious to avoid. It is possible, they held, to blow up a ship without leaving an unfavorable impression. Everything depends on the right touch.

* * * *

No submarine captain wants to be so rude that he will never be asked to sink anybody a second time.

* * * *

There may even be cards issued by submarine skippers before the event:

> Captain Max Sulzerberger
> Requests
> The Pleasure of Your Company
> At a Torpedoing
> Wednesday, June 8th, at 3 p. m.

By all means humanize the submarine. Anything to make warfare all in good fun.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Older Federal Employes Want Retirement at 60 and $1,200 Annuity, and No Nonsense.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Manifestly it is a matter of interest and speculation in the case of Government employes that a second bill for retirement of Government workers has been introduced in the House. Both houses passed the Dale bill last session; the Senate repassed it a few weeks ago; there were gratifying assurances that it would pass the House and receive favorable action at this juncture a bill bristling with mystifying and mysterious provisions appeared.

The proposed new bill displaces the Dale bill and imperils the enactment of any amendment to retirement legislation at this session of Congress.

If retirement should be satisfactorily settled, or nearly so, it would be an end of parley, propaganda, committee meetings, and all the pomp and circumstance of doing things for superannuated Government clerks.

It is safe to assume that those who have been in the service for 25 or 30 years are not interested so keenly in proposed annuities involving complicated systems, actuarial literature, and the like, as they are in a bill that they understand and that has the merit of having passed the Senate. By and large, the older clerks who realize that this is the day of the young men and younger women in the civil service crave something tangible and certain. Those between the ages of 55 and 60, it is evident, who have wrestled with fate for 25 and 30 years and know that promotions (certainly under the Welch bill with its cross-cut average) are as unlikely as snow in harvest; those venerable men whose eyes have grown dim in the dimmer light of Government offices, whose spines incline to curve, whose bridgework has given way, and who find it harder to dodge taxis as they pursue their way to work, "babble o' green fields"—rest, retirement. Voluntary retirement after 30 years' service; $1,200 a year; a bill to that effect; these are what they wish.

No other work is like Government work. It has its compensations and opportunities, but it has also its unmitigated routine, its monotony, its disappointments and humiliations which increase with the years of the Government clerk, and

"Wear out his time like his master's ass
For nought but provender, and when he's old, cashier'd."

The Old-Time Saloon Better Than Speakeasies and Hip Flasks—Saloon Keepers Brought Prohibition Upon Themselves.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In his testimony against the eighteenth amendment before the House judiciary committee former Senator Bruce, as reported by the Associated Press, said that there should be some better way under which liquor could be controlled instead of returning the saloons to their former corners. He added, however, that if he were put on a choice between the old saloon and prohibition, he would take the old saloon.

The statement of the former senator is only in part well advised. There can be no question that the "old saloon" was less objectionable than the speak-easy and the clandestine flask. It was objectionable, however, because it was not well regulated. In fact the saloonkeeper himself had more to do with bringing prohibition about than any one else. Had the saloon business in every case been decently conducted in strict compliance with the law there would have been no eighteenth amendment.

Before prohibition there was some progress being made toward strict regulation, and with good results. If the prohibition movement had failed, it is reasonable to think that the improvement would have continued at least until we had reached a decent approximation to temperance.

America Goes Out to Settle World Peace While Its Second Largest City Carries on a Reign of Terror.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is an amusing circumstance that our national attempts at naval limitation and international security should be taking place simultaneously with our local efforts to curb crime.

Can you, with a straight face, picture the statesmen of this great Nation going forth to dictate world peace treaties and to lead the countries of the globe toward the goal of everlasting harmony, while at home, within that Nation, a single city carries on "a reign of terror" with impunity?

Because we are industrially and financially the foremost Nation of the civilized world of today, we are always so ready to think that we are capable of settling others' affairs and so busy doing it that we only half look out for our own.

If we were the shining example we're supposed to be and racketeers could operate in the wholesale fashion that they do, and get away with it, I'd say: Hats off to Chicago.

PROBLEMS OF THE ROBOT.

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, told a radio audience that, despite the apparent drawbacks of the "machine age," it had provided living standards never before equaled. He believed that "the new jobs brought into being by our steadily mounting levels of living should eventually take care of all the men and women displaced by the machine."

This is encouraging, observes the Philadelphia Public Ledger, though it may not mitigate at all the hardships admittedly inseparable from the "rise of the mechanical robot." How large a place the robot already occupies Dr. Klein illustrated by the statement that in one automobile frame plant only 200 men are required to supervise the production of between 7,000 and 9,000 frames daily, whereas in a European plant 200 men turn out only 35 frames a day.

Obviously readjustments are in order, and it is gratifying to reflect that the problems presented are engaging the minds of practical men in industry and government. The constructive policies of the Hoover administration should go far in easing the period of change.

POLICE SUPPRESS MADRID FOOD RIOTS

Berenguer Regime Dismayed by Disturbances Caused by Unemployment.

NEW DICTATORSHIP SEEN

Madrid, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—While police and civil guards suppressed food riots in Madrid today, the government prepared to quell disturbances that might develop anywhere in Spain. The government of Gen. Damaso Berenguer believes that political interests desirous of discrediting the successors to the Primo de Rivera dictatorship are inciting unemployed workers, republicans, radical groups generally, and Catalan separatists to attempt disturbances.

This afternoon's food riots in Madrid followed yesterday's demonstrations of the jobless who marched to the royal palace demanding work. The riots occurred in the outskirts of the city, where the demonstrators broke into grocery stores and smashed shop windows to obtain food.

A number of heads were bruised before the demonstrations were broken up.

Madrid newspapers estimate that there are 25,000 unemployed in the capital, most of them from the building trades. Construction is almost at a standstill. The strike of cement workers at Sagunto caused reports of trouble brewing there, but the government said today that conditions were tranquil.

Minor disturbances have been reported in many parts of Spain, most of them engineered by university students rejoicing in Primo de Rivera's downfall and by citizens who sought to disturb disliked municipal officials. In addition, Republican groups have been openly advocating a republic with freedom unknown before.

In view of the disturbances the Berenguer government is said to be wondering whether it has been too liberal in removing the suppressions of Primo. Well-informed circles believe the government will soon become much more severe or will plan to return Spain to another dictatorship.

These sources say that Gen. Berenguer, who first planned to conduct elections and restore Parliament, is disappointed by the disturbances. They say they would not be surprised if soon Berenguer himself, with the approval of the king, would decide that Spain needed another dictatorship and would proceed by prearrangement to have another strong general repeat Primo's coup and become dictator.

Association Urges Extension of Road

Would Run New York Avenue to Bladensburg Road Northeast.

Early extension of New York avenue from its present terminus to Bladensburg road northeast was urged by the board of governors of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association yesterday. The board likewise authorized appointment of a special committee to make a study of the plan for reorganization of the Metropolitan Police Department as proposed by the department's heads.

At the annual election, Mark Lansburgh, vice president for several terms, was elected president. James E. Colliflower, Ford E. Young, and Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, retiring president, were elected vice presidents; Louis Levay was chosen treasurer, and Edward D. Shaw, was reelected secretary.

Gen. Stephan, who had served as president of the association for the last three successive terms and two terms previously, declined nomination for reelection. As a token of appreciation for his long service, members of the board presented him with a radio.

Home for Aged Receives Endowment Increase

Reduction of $5,000 in the debt of the Methodist Home for the Aged and an increase of more than $7,000 in the endowment was reported at the annual meeting of the board of managers of the institution yesterday.

Mrs. Harry Hoskinson was reelected president for the coming year, and other officers chosen were Mrs. Irving O. Ball, vice president at large; Mrs. J. Frank Campbell and Mrs. Grace A. L. Suit, vice presidents; Mrs. Oliver B. Jenkins, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Richard S. Wolfe, assistant corresponding secretary; Miss Bertha Gray, recording secretary; Mrs. James Mackey, assistant recording secretary, and Mrs. Edward M. Hall, treasurer.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THOSE millions of people who seek consolation for the soul in the belief of life after death should get ample reassurance from the death of former Senator Fred T. Dubois, of Idaho. The vibrant, living something about him, his active intellect, the sparkle in his eye could not conceivably have become nothing in the few moments that the mechanism of his withered body failed.

This wearing away of the body, this steady erosiveness and failure of the machinery was readily apparent to those of us who played bridge with him at the Press Club. It was easily understandable, comprehensible, indeed, to the 10-year-old child.

It was something before the eyes like the aging of a tree.

* * * *

IT was something, in fact, that came quite naturally with time, that came under the weight of his 79 years, a quite natural phenomenon that occasioned no surprise at all.

But that chuckle, that happy philosophy, those clear, laughing eyes—they were not worn or tired. They were perpetually living evergreen.

They were young and very much alive. They were not ailing, there was no mechanical flaw. So they could not possibly have died in those few moments in which the doctors define life and death.

OF COURSE, he will not chuckle any more and bid his partner in the bridge games take in the tricks, but that indefinite force that made it possible for the partner to take in the tricks must be just as virile, just as much alive, as it ever was.

It is a tribute to the character of the "Old Man" that he had so many young friends. In the rush and hurly burly of their lives, trying to crowd as much in as he did in his, the youngsters seldom have time for the older people, and to an increasing degree these days, they seldom have time even for respect.

They had time for the senator. He had a host of such friends, and it was because he was one of them, because, more than anything else, perhaps, he had tolerance for them.

* * * *

SEVENTY-NINE years affords a long vista to mortal man's eye; in the case of the senator, a great road running back in narrowing width to the territorial days of the West, to the very infancy of Idaho. He was the first senator from that State, he grew up and developed with its Statehood, he knew the buffetings of more than 40 years of politics.

Such a life scrolls deeply on a man's mind and for Senator Dubois it gave him a broad, tolerant, humorous view of the road over which the youngsters and up-and-comers struggle in an effort to make the grade. He never tried to anticipate their course, but was on hand with a word of happy encouragement when they fell down.

The gang will miss you, senator.

LEHLBACH IS INDIGNANT AT CRITICISM OF MEASURE

and Mr. Alcorn, chairman of the joint conference on retirement, both have voiced opposition to the bill.

Both say that they are in favor of the Dale retirement bill that already has passed the Senate, providing certain changes are made in it.

Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, the largest of the employe groups, is strong for the new Lehlbach bill, and is prepared to prove that it is more beneficial than the Dale bill.

To which Mrs. Worrell replies with a charge that President Steward is "fooling" the employes.

In his letter to Chairman Lehlbach, Mr. Grimm said that, in his opinion, the new bill is so extensive that it does not have a chance to pass at this time, and he urged that Lehlbach "leave well enough alone" and get behind the Dale bill.

In his reply, Chairman Lehlbach answered the charge that his new bill is an insurance bill.

"The providing of annuities," he said, "is the business of insurance and the present and every other conceivable system of retirement annuities is based on principles developed by those whose business it is, or else the system goes on the rocks. Objections to annuities along the lines of insurance is simply a confession of inability to understand what it is all about.

"Instructions to me by outsiders as to what measures have the better opportunity of enactment seems somewhat incongruous. I am in constant contact on this subject with administrative and legislative leaders and know their views. I know what they will gladly expedite and what they have no especial favor for. After all, Congress does the legislating and not any joint conference. (This was aimed at Alcorn's organization.)

"There is not a benefit in the Dale bill not included in the proposed bill. Substantial increases for the present annuitants and all who will retire hereafter are contemplated. I suggest that people do not rush on record in opposition to a measure of which they know nothing, either as to its provisions or its support in powerful quarters.

Bill Discussed With Hoover.

"As to enactment, a comprehensive revision of the retirement system on a sound basis has a much better chance of speedy and sympathetic consideration than the Dale bill."

Chairman Lehlbach's reference to the support his bill has in "powerful quarters" was taken to mean the support, among others, of President Hoover. Mr. Lehlbach discussed the terms of his bill with the President before introducing it, and on leaving the White House said that the President offered no objection to it.

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, introduced a bill yesterday to make retirement optional arter 30 years of service and after the employe has reached 60 years of age. It also would set the minimum annuity at $365 and the maximum at $1,500.

SENATORS WARN OF ECHOES FROM BATTLE OVER HUGHES

defense of civil institutions except the Federal judiciary."

He was challenged by Senator Walsh, of Montana, and Senator Johnson, of California, who pointed out that the Supreme Court had refused to take jurisdiction when the State of Georgia sought relief from military rule.

Vandenberg contended that Dill's philosophy was one that "for 140 years has undertaken to subordinate the Supreme Court to the legislature." He could not subscribe to it, he declared.

Dill replied that he had said nothing about overturning the Supreme Court's decisions by legislative action and that he had, instead, pointed out that that was impossible.

"When the senator pleads for the sacredness of the Constitution, I remind him that I was before him in pleading for it, but I pointed out that the people have been the means and will use the means to change the Constitution, possibly more radically than he or I would desire." Already he said there had been demands for a constitutional convention, and another way the people could get at the matter was to send senators here who would constitute the court as they wanted it.

He asserted that Abraham Lincoln had remarked, apropos of the Dred Scott decision, that "We can not defy the court, but we can change the judges."

Senator Vandenberg if he had not supported Theodore Roosevelt, who favored the recall of judges. Vandenberg said this was not the reason he had supported him.

Senator Norris declared Vandenberg had spoken erroneously in referring to "post mortems," as this matter was not dead. If it is it will be like Banquo's ghost, he declared, "it will come back to plague, it will return until the people of the United States, the common people, get their absolute justice."

"Mr. Hughes is an example and other members of the court are examples where without any question they were nominated by the President because they held economic views in conformity with the Chief Magistrate," Norris declared.

Incidentally, one administration senator expressed the opinion without professing to know that Mr. Hoover figured that the three liberal members on the court about represented the liberal view in this country and that when it comes to replacing one of them he will name a liberal.

One administration senator who voted for Hughes received a telegram saying, "I am now convinced you have nothing in your head."

A Progressive who voted against him, on the other hand, received a telegram saying, "I am beginning to believe George Moses was right."

Senators Fess and Goff are two administration members planning to take up the defense of Mr. Hughes' appointment and it may be that Senator Watson, majority leader, will, too.

U. S. Writer Freed From Mexican Cell

Carleton Beals Is Detained Following Article on Communists.

Mexico City, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Carleton Beals, American, author and newspaperman, was released tonight after six hours' detention at the garrison headquarters of Mexico City. The American Embassy had investigated reports that he had been held by the police but had not been able to get in touch with him. Mr. Beals, who resigned on January 23 as correspondent of the Soviet Newspaper Agency Tass, has written and lectured widely about Mexico. His American address is Berkeley, Calif.

It was understood that Mr. Beals, who was arrested by five detectives about noon today, was released after the American Embassy had made representations to the Mexican government.

He was questioned for almost six hours. His detention was apparently caused by his article "Mexico and the Communists" in the current issue of the New Republic, American liberal weekly, in which he is understood to have attacked the Mexican government for its policy toward the Mexican Communist party.

Hoover Will Leave Today for Capital

Party Catches 120 Pounds of Fish on Last Full Day at Sea.

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—President Hoover and his party returned to the houseboat Saunterer long after dark tonight from an all-day fishing trip to Sombrero Light, 25 miles south of here, and sent word ashore that the party had caught 120 pounds of fish. Who caught how many pounds was left to the imagination.

Immediately upon the President's return, Capt. Allen Buchanan, his naval aid, went aboard the Saunterer with the largest sheaf of messages yet received at Long Key. There was no indication of their nature, but the fact that Capt. Buchanan took them out was taken to mean that they dealt with matters growing out of the London naval conference.

Today was the last opportunity Mr. Hoover will have for a full day on the ocean. The train which will take him back to Washington tomorrow night will leave shortly after dark. Luggage packing and moving will take up part of tomorrow afternoon. The special car in which he came from Washington will be placed on a siding here at noon and some of the party are expected to come ashore at that time.

POLI'S

As Brutus "was the noblest Roman of them all," so to many who have followed the fortunes of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare Society since its arrival in Washington, their "Julius Caesar," played last night before a capacity audience, is the noblest play rendered so far. This in face of the fact that the company has given many splendid performances at Poli's.

Hart Jenks carried the title role with dignity and honor. Louis Leon Hall was Brutus, and there were moments when the tonal qualities of his voice were magnificent, though he tired at times. The man is an orator, and a good one. Hence, his speeches were effective. Fritz Leiber, playing Marc Anthony, made much of the celebrated funeral oration. This trio, naturally, carried the play, set the tempo and won the laurels. They were called before the curtain at intermissions and at the end of the drama.

Two more plays remain in the repertoire—"As You Like It," at matinee today, and "Richard III," the farewell performance tonight.

MASSACRE MEMORY FAILS TO STIR GANGS

Zero Hour Passes While Seven Are Indicted on Gun-Toting Charges.

WOMAN HEARS SENTENCE

Chicago, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—All was quiet in Chicago gangland today.

Comparative peace reigned and the imps of superstition chuckled at those who expected repetition of, or reprisal for, the St. Valentine's day massacre of a year ago.

The zero hour came and passed and there was not so much as a "boo" from gangland. Victims of the massacre last St. Valentine's day were seven members of the George "Bugs" Moran band of rum purveyors. They were lined up in a garage by opposing gangsters posing as police and killed by machine guns.

Any advantages in the war on hoodlums today were on the side of society. Seven men, among them some "big shots" from the hoodlum camp, were named in indictments for gun toting. They were Bernard O'Donnell, George Barker, William "Three-Fingered Jack" White, Thomas Vinceri, Herman Tinson, John Cleksy and Albert Carter.

Arraignment of nine others indicted previously, and assurance of their speedy trials, also were counted a police victory. Others of more importance obtained continuances to enable them to meet the high bonds set in the gun toting indictments, among them Jack McGurn, alleged lieutenant of Scarface Al Capone, and Tony Accardo, his bodyguard.

One sentence for carrying a gun was meted out in municipal court. It went to a woman, Miss Marie Fletcher, who some weeks ago let a gun drop from her purse while she was being questioned about another matter. She was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $10. Among 124 arrests last night, swelling the total prisoners of the police drive to more than 3,000 to date, was that of John Neville, who was named by the dying William Healy as the man who shot him February 4.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 13.

Pensions paid by a corporation or person to an individual for services he, himself, has rendered are taxable. Pensions or retired pay paid by the United States Government also are taxable, except as provided by the revenue act, which exempts from taxation "amounts received as compensation, family allotments and allowances under the war risk insurance act, the vocational rehabilitation act, or the World War veterans' act, 1924, or as pensions from the United States for service of the beneficiary or another in the military or naval forces in time of war."

Pensions received from a State are exempt from tax, also a bonus paid by a State to its residents who served in the military or naval forces during the war with Germany. Benefits received from a labor union by a member while on strike constitute taxable income. An allowance paid by the governing body of a religious denomination from retirement funds formed by assessments of various churches in which he has been employed is taxable income.

Annuities paid to retired employes of the Federal Government are subject to the tax to the extent that the aggregate amount of the payments exceed the amounts withheld from compensation of the employes. If an employe leaves the Government service before he is eligible for retirement, and receives the amount of salary withheld, together with interest, he should report only the amount of interest received as income for the year in which received.

POLI'S

As Brutus "was the noblest Roman of them all," so to many who have followed the fortunes of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare Society since its arrival in Washington, their "Julius Caesar," played last night before a capacity audience, is the noblest play rendered so far. This in face of the fact that the company has given many splendid performances at Poli's.

Hart Jenks carried the title role with dignity and honor. Louis Leon Hall was Brutus, and there were moments when the tonal qualities of his voice were magnificent, though he tired at times. The man is an orator, and a good one. Hence, his speeches were effective. Fritz Leiber, playing Marc Anthony, made much of the celebrated funeral oration. This trio, naturally, carried the play, set the tempo and won the laurels. They were called before the curtain at intermissions and at the end of the drama.

Two more plays remain in the repertoire—"As You Like It," at matinee today, and "Richard III," the farewell performance tonight.

MASSACRE MEMORY FAILS TO STIR GANGS

Zero Hour Passes While Seven Are Indicted on Gun-Toting Charges.

WOMAN HEARS SENTENCE

Chicago, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—All was quiet in Chicago gangland today.

Comparative peace reigned and the imps of superstition chuckled at those who expected repetition of, or reprisal for, the St. Valentine's day massacre of a year ago.

The zero hour came and passed and there was not so much as a "boo" from gangland. Victims of the massacre last St. Valentine's day were seven members of the George "Bugs" Moran band of rum purveyors. They were lined up in a garage by opposing gangsters posing as police and killed by machine guns.

Any advantages in the war on hoodlums today were on the side of society. Seven men, among them some "big shots" from the hoodlum camp, were named in indictments for gun toting. They were Bernard O'Donnell, George Barker, William "Three-Fingered Jack" White, Thomas Vinceri, Herman Tinson, John Cleksy and Albert Carter.

Arraignment of nine others indicted previously, and assurance of their speedy trials, also were counted a police victory. Others of more importance obtained continuances to enable them to meet the high bonds set in the gun toting indictments, among them Jack McGurn, alleged lieutenant of Scarface Al Capone, and Tony Accardo, his bodyguard.

One sentence for carrying a gun was meted out in municipal court. It went to a woman, Miss Marie Fletcher, who some weeks ago let a gun drop from her purse while she was being questioned about another matter. She was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $10. Among 124 arrests last night, swelling the total prisoners of the police drive to more than 3,000 to date, was that of John Neville, who was named by the dying William Healy as the man who shot him February 4.

YOUR INCOME TAX

No. 13.

Pensions paid by a corporation or person to an individual for services he, himself, has rendered are taxable. Pensions or retired pay paid by the United States Government also are taxable, except as provided by the revenue act, which exempts from taxation "amounts received as compensation, family allotments and allowances under the war risk insurance act, the vocational rehabilitation act, or the World War veterans' act, 1924, or as pensions from the United States for service of the beneficiary or another in the military or naval forces in time of war."

Pensions received from a State are exempt from tax, also a bonus paid by a State to its residents who served in the military or naval forces during the war with Germany. Benefits received from a labor union by a member while on strike constitute taxable income. An allowance paid by the governing body of a religious denomination from retirement funds formed by assessments of various churches in which he has been employed is taxable income.

Annuities paid to retired employes of the Federal Government are subject to the tax to the extent that the aggregate amount of the payments exceed the amounts withheld from compensation of the employes. If an employe leaves the Government service before he is eligible for retirement, and receives the amount of salary withheld, together with interest, he should report only the amount of interest received as income for the year in which received.

THE unsettled conditions which affected radio have been successfully met, according to Paul B. Klugh, of Zenith, Chicago, who reports the largest January business in his company's history.

B. J. Grigsby, of Majestic, Chicago, reports sales for January, 1930, of $5,368,788, about $100,000 ahead of same month last year.

There will be something doing when Lady Astor broadcasts from London to the United States a week from tomorrow, the first woman to speak across the Atlantic.

BERNARD D. J. LODER, former chief judge of the World Court for International Justice, will speak direct from Holland through Station WRC at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Senator David Reed, of Pennsylvania, will be heard over Station WMAL from London a half hour earlier.

A firm in Hartford, Conn., has offered to buy the old taxicab from "Amos 'n' Andy." Because of the Puccini opera at 7 o'clock they will not be heard tonight over WRC, but may be picked up over KDKA or WJZ.

The broadcast will be repeated at 11:30 p. m. through Stations WHAS, Louisville; WMAQ, Chicago, and others.

EMPLOYES of the Radio Commission will give a dinner to the five commissioners Monday night at Wardman Park. High-powered broadcasting talent donated by the chains and brought here from New York will entertain the gathering.

"We are going to celebrate either the departure of the present commissioners or their reappointment," some one connected with the affair remarked.

The terms of the commissioners expire the following Sunday.

The question about Will Osborne, which The Post listener who called up asked, will be answered in the "Off the Antenna" column on the radio page paper tomorrow.

SINCE it is generally understood that an ambassador can not talk about anything but the weather, and even not that if it is unpleasant in the country to which he is assigned, the vigorous radio address of Noble Giacomo de Martino, the Italian Ambassador, in which he discussed the naval conference and other live topics, proved quite a surprise.

Also it was noticed that though Ambassador de Martino made enthusiastic references to Mussolini, Grandi and the Fascisti, the name of the King of Italy was not mentioned, although the king was referred to by Senator Gillett, of Massachusetts, who introduced the ambassador.

"And now," said Cheerio the other night, "let's have some music so everybody can talk!"

Dare Interprets the Mode

A suggestion for a little tot's practical spring ensemble. (A Day-ray design.)

Paris, Feb. 14.

USED to be a day when children's clothes were children's clothes, women's clothes were women's clothes, and "old ladies' " clothes were just naturally "old ladies' " clothes. But not today. Today, if you must know it, a very little lady of 3 years wears—in the daytime, of course—exactly the same type of garment that her grandmother wears, be she chic.

If you don't believe me, look yourself and see what I have illustrated for you today. It's a complete new outfit for Petite Adorable for spring—thought out and assembled in such a way that she has infinite variety with a minimum of expense. Can't you see that the same outfit would be the last word in smartness for any schoolgirl of any age, or for a chic steno or a modish grandmamma?

Look ye well and learn what smart youngsters of today wear, and then remember past horrors of helpless little girls waddling down the street looking like stray lampshades or animated wedding cakes.

• • • •

So-o-o-o, you are to cut out today's illustration and carefully save it! Because I have made exactly this outfit for Petite Adorable for her Easter ensemble, and since everything I do for her is for all other mothers as well, I made you an illustrated leaflet telling you how to make it yourself. Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the leaflet and don't forget that whether you have a little tot with you or not, this outfit is entirely interesting from the practical point of view for the grown-up as well.

• • • •

"Ca, c'est tres joli, mademoiselle."

Much embarrassment and hasty pulling together of defunct wrap-around skirts on the part of La Chic Secretaire Americaine, while the all but Ex-tinguished Exporter tried to look nonchalant—lit a cigarette, threw it away and put the match in his mouth.

The wrap-around skirt is no problem at all in these days of culottes that match one's gown. Naturally, there's no point to culottes that match a long gown, but for all women's garments designed for walking or sports, or in any way demanding more protection than lingerie affords, culottes that match are in order. And at that, really much nicer than an underskirt!

• • • •

The stocking situation has simply got to be taken in hand! You see, you can buy really good-looking stockings for around a dollar a pair in the larger cities, but even if you can, why be rough with them when just the least little bit of attention will assure you of more stockings, or your little "dollarses" for something else?

Stocking knowledge consists of washing out your stockings every night in just luke-warm water and a very little soap, and on the feet only; in turning your stockings wrong side out before you wash them; in buying two pairs of the same kind and color at the same time—and there you are, 'cause I've come to the end of my space, so I'll have to tell you more about stockings another day!

And tomorrow's the day for the weekly Dare fashion letter. Look for it in the big Sunday Washington Post.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

HOW LONG SHALL WE LIVE?

HOW long can one expect to live? The answer depends on several factors, such as: Is the person an average person? What is the color and race? The sex? Where does he live? Will he continue to live about where he now does and about as he now does?

The United States Census Office has published two life tables supplying the answer to the question. But they are now old, and they were based on census reports that were older still. The Metropolitan Life has recently supplied the answer as far as their policyholders are concerned. The answer is not only more up-to-date than that of the census office, but it applies to the entire country, which the census office tables did not.

In 1928 an average man 70 years of age could plan on eight and a quarter years of life. The average woman expected to outlive the average man by almost a year. At age 65, the average white man could plan on ten years and five months. At age 60 almost thirteen years were his to draw on. At age 55, fifteen years and ten months. At 50, a little over nineteen years. At age 45, twenty-two and a half years. At age 40, over twenty-six years. At age 35, over thirty years. At age 30, thirty-four years and two months. At age 25, thirty-eight years and seven months.

There is no need to go further. People 20 years of age and less can not bring themselves to think of such questions.

Women average just about half a year more of expectancy than men do at the same age period.

In 1928 the expectancy of life of the average baby at birth was just a little short of 50 years of age. This takes into account the dangers of that first summer, to say nothing of the colds and pneumonias which lurk around in the first winter. This expectancy of nearly 56 years is a gain of 9¼ years since 1911. But we must admit that the rate of gain is falling off. The expectancies in 1928 were shorter than in 1927. Those of the older life periods show a rather definite tendency to slump.

While on the subject we might add that health, as shown by death rates, has slumped a little in recent years.

COLD BATH AS CHASER.

J. W. writes: After strenuous exercise, is it safe to take a cold shower immediately after a hot one?

REPLY.

Yes. A good plan is to clean off by the use of soap and a warm shower and then to follow with a cold one as a chaser and bracer.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

THE talkies, you may or may not have noticed, are betraying a remarkable facility for undoing the habits of a screen lifetime.

Bebe Daniels, who used to run foot races with Charlie Paddock in the old silent days, has become a dignified songstress; the great lover, Ronald Colman, is being transformed into a gentleman crook and gentle, old Alec B. Francis has been made over into a murderer.

The change that has come to Francis has been just a bit startling. For 20 years or so he has been held up as a shining example of benign and pacific gentleman of advancing years. Then a director perceived other possibilities in his art and made him a criminal in "The Bishop Murder Case."

At first, it is said, Francis refused to accept the part, but something must have changed his mind for he has since been cast as a none-too-honest lawyer, a German general and now is about to become a crook in "Raffles."

It will interest his many Washington friends that a picture said to parellel the life of Jack Smith, "the whispering barytone," will be made from "Alone With You," a recent magazine story. Jack, of course, will appear in the featured role.

Crowding close behind Foxcolor comes now Harriscolor, the latest to enter the field of natural color film. The Harriscolor Co., which has been doing research work for the past two years, uses a three-color process that prints on a single emulsion. It is equipped to take care of 15,000,000 feet within the next six months—which sounds like a great many feet.

And that reminds me. In a recent letter to this desk, Tom Moore, pioneer Washington film man and owner of the Rialto Theater property, dropped the information that the New York branch of his Essem Laboratory, to which he is devoting his entire time, has contracted with several of the leading producing companies to treat their film with Perfexit, his trick compound, to a total amount of 14,000,000 feet a week—which also sounds like a great many feet.

Douglas Fairbanks, jr., will be featured opposite Billie Dove in "One Night at Susie's," and I hope by that time he'll have a haircut. It would be even better if he'd have them all cut!

Frank Fay's first starring picture for the Warners will be "Broadway Playboy." I should anticipate the event with a great deal more enthusiasm were somebody other than Michael Curtiz to direct. But perhaps he has improved. Or maybe he had just one good picture in his system and this will prove to be it.

James Gleason and Robert Armstrong, who have been just like that ever since their notable stage association in Gleason's "Is Zat So?" refuse to be separated. They will again appear together in the Warner Brothers' production of "Dumbells In Ermine." Not that it matters.

Margaret Seddon has been engaged for a supporting role in "Those Who Dance," soon to be put in work. The title was made once before with Raymond Griffith and Bessie Love in important roles. Or am I wrong?

When Harry Hammond Beall, president of the Wampas, West Coast press agents' organization throws a party, I mean to say Harry Hammond Beall, president of the Wampas, throws a party—even including an elegant brochure concerning his manifold achievements written by no less a personage than Basil Woon.

I can think of no less appropriate a nickname for Mr. Beall than the "Ham" by which he is known to his friends! And Mrs. Beall is a charming hostess.

And a week from today is another of those working days they quaintly call a "legal holiday!"

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from noon to 2 p. m., and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., and from 6 p. m. to 6:45 p. m.

The astrological influences for this date will act as an emotional stabilizer and a brain stimulator. The day should end with a feeling of satisfaction for that which has been accomplished. Youth is favored.

Children born on this February 15 will absorb knowledge easily, especially of countries and people, and they will be mentally ambitious. They will go into things with their heart and soul, and will be diligent workers. They will have even tempers.

You may be well envied for your capacity for making friends. You can be a true pal to one or 8 or 80. The friendship of a child is a priceless possession, and one which must be won through merit. You are not in the least stand-offish with others, and you never receive a snub for your friendly overtures. We sow service and we reap friendship.

You are well qualified to withstand the worries and troubles of modern life, because you are cheerful and optimistic. You should have a long and healthy life, for you have the "will to be well" spirit—you will never suffer from neurosis.

You are a very easy worker, and you accomplish a great deal within a short time with very little visible effort. You never make a fuss or furore over anything. "System" is probably the secret of your efficiency. You do not think that you know it all, or that others can not do things for you—you are only too anxious to cooperate with others, and to receive and give assistance.

You will never allow yourself to fall into a rut, you have a diversity of interests, and you are always learning from life and the world. You will have a full life and a happy one.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Alimony."

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I am a poor man, that is, for today. My income is from $2,500 to $3,000 a year: I am paying alimony to my wife, who left me four years ago. She is now trying to have this alimony increased. She has the children, as I allowed her to after seven years of continuous quarreling. My wife was a very pretty woman without very much brains. I knew this when I married her. My mother warned me that it would end badly, and it certainly has. At first my wife helped me in the business, but she quarreled with customers, argued over trifles, and finally I had to ask her to stay away from the place. This was the beginning of our troubles.

We had three dear children, and what little time I ever had I was very happy playing with them. Then my wife began neglecting the house and running around, claiming that I never took her any place.

Why don't you write something on the crime of any man paying all his life to a woman who will not live with him? Of course, I want my kids to have a nice home. But what of me? I have never looked at another woman. In fact, have never had time to rest, much less bother with women, and yet here I am in the treadmill. Why don't you take up that side of the marriage question and get a little justice for worms like me?

"ALIMONY."

Now, Mr. Worm, in the first place why did you give up your children and your home? You had done no wrong, and if your wife refused to do her part, she and not you should suffer. You should not be paying alimony. Your wife, if your version is to be relied upon, should be supporting herself and you should be free to marry. As it is you are both living an unnatural and very embittering life, the children are fatherless and none of you have a real home.

Be a man. Claim your rights. Tell your wife that she can live with you or without you but not "on" you. Tell her that you want your children and a home, and she can provide these things or provide for herself. In my opinion you are a terribly weak specimen of manhood and no article on alimony can do anything whatever for anyone so weak. Assert yourself, Mr. Worm, before somebody steps on you.

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

BRIDGERS, ATTENTION!

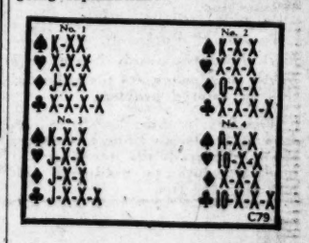
Because of space limitations the answers given in our great Milton C. Work Home Bridge Contest, which ended recently, are necessarily abridged, but in order to satisfy the intense interest in the Questions and Answers, Mr. Work has prepared a splendid 48-page booklet entitled "Playing Problems," which reproduces the eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding, with the reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reasons for such answers in complete detail, all written in Mr. Work's clear and interesting style.

This booklet, "Playing Problems," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed, stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

For the Player Familiar With Auction But Inexperienced in Contract.

THE lowest count possible for the bidder of an original two No Trumps to have is 17 (the No Trump count, as has been repeatedly stated in this column, is based upon reckoning an Ace as 4, King as 3, Queen as 2, Jack as 1 and two Tens as 1). Furthermore, when two No Trumps is bid with a count of 17 or 18, all four suits must be stopped. If the bid be made without all four suits stopped, the hand must have had a count of 19 or more and the fourth suit must have been stronger or longer than a worthless doubleton. Consequently, the partner, when deciding whether to jump two No Trumps, knows that he is facing a hand counting 19 or more with three suits stopped, or from 17 to 20 with four suits stopped. It takes a very slight complement to such a hand to produce game, consequently the jump from two to three No Trumps is made with holdings light as air; it is justified by any count of 6, and 5 is sufficient if the 5 be made up of a King and Queen (regardless of whether these two cards are in the same suit or not) or of an Ace and one other count. That other count could be a Jack or two Tens.

The following hands are supposed to face a partner who has opened the contracting with a bid of two No Trumps, they will illustrate the foregoing explanation:



No. 1 falls short of the qualification as it has a count of only 4; No. 2 has the 5-count King-and-Queen; No. 3 has a count of 6; and No. 4 has a count of 5 consisting of "Ace and one more" (two Tens).

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

How to Care for Milk and Other Dairy Products.

(Dairy Industry Bureau, Department of Agriculture.)

Milk and cream are among the most perishable and easily contaminated of all foods, and since they are often served uncooked, they may be a menace to health unless produced and handled in a cleanly way. Milk produced for home use on the farm deserves as careful attention as it would receive in a first-class dairy. Cleanliness in milking, the use of sterilized utensils, prompt straining and cooling of the milk, and keeping it at a temperature of 50 degrees Fahrenheit or less if possible, in a place free from odors, dust and flies will bring large returns in quality and flavor and consequently in family well-being. The indifference or aversion of farm children to milk has been traced in many cases to the fact that milk smells and tastes of the cow, the stable and of poorly washed utensils.

Milk bought from a dairy is best kept until used in the bottles in which it is delivered. They should be brought indoors as soon as possible after delivery, washed and placed in the refrigerator or other storage place where the temperature is 50 degrees Fahrenheit or preferably less. In washing, special attention should be given to the mouth of the bottle and the cap. Even a temporary rise in the temperature of milk aids the development of bacteria. Directions for the home pasteurization of milk, as well as more detailed suggestions for care are given in another bulletin.

Butter should be kept cold and in a covered container that excludes light and prevents the absorption of foreign flavors. Creamery print butter keeps well in the cartons in which it is marketed. Butter purchased in bulk should be rinsed off with cold water to remove any drops of buttermilk which may have come to the surface and may then be wrapped in several thicknesses of cheesecloth wet in weak brine.

Cheese of any kind is especially susceptible to mold, but it can be protected to some degree by keeping it cool and well wrapped in waxed paper. Soft cheeses should be left in their original containers until used. The odor of cheese is so penetrating that it should be kept in a tight container if stored near butter, eggs or other foods likely to be flavored by it.

Wilkins Coffee is the kind of good Coffee you have been seeking. It is rich, yet mild and smooth in flavor. That's because it is blended entirely from quality Coffees.

ROSENBLOOM GAINS DECISION OVER ACE HUDKINS

Watson Entry Is Victor by 2 Lengths

Earl of Warwick Second in Feature; Bocaratone 3d.

Leiter's Prince Zeus and Princess Dare Score a Double.

FAIR GROUNDS RACE TRACK, New Orleans, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Miss Blanche Watson's Lord Braedalbane won the St. Valentine's Allowances Purse, the feature on today's Fair Grounds card. G. Collins' Earl of Warwick was second, and Mrs. W. J. Potter's Bocaratone was third. Arcturus, the hot public choice, ran fourth in the field of seven. The race was a mile gallop for older horses, and the time was 1:40. J. Leyland rode the winner, which paid $8.30 for a $2 mutual ticket.

Lord Braedalbane showed marked improvement in form and was off to a good start. In the stretch he moved up and won easily by two lengths. Earl of Warwick also moved up in the stretch and finished well, taking the place by a length. Bocaratone tired in the final drive. Arcturus tired badly in the final drive.

Joseph Leiter scored a double in the first two races today, his Prince Zeus winning the first and Princess Dare the second.

Clean Play Wins Impressively At Miami.

Miami Race Track, Fla., Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. V. M. Duncan's Clean Play, favorite, scored impressively in the Hillandale Purse, at 1 mile, here today. The winner was ridden by George Fields, and the veteran jockey never rode a more energetic race than the one he put up on Clean Play. He used good head work for entire trip.

Clean Play was a bit slow to get going, but he was lucky to get through on the inside around the first turn and ran into a contending position.

In the final furlong Fields shot him to the front and the gelding held on gamely to win by three-fourths of a length. Fairy Maiden was ahead 1½ lengths for the place.

Jocky S. Bullman, who was unseated by Prince Bonnie at the Barrier before the beginning of the fifth race here, was taken to a hospital with the possibility of having sustained a broken back.

Get of Publisher First and Second at Havana.

Havana Race Track, Cuba, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Two-year-olds were asked to race four furlongs in the third race today, under claiming conditions. The winner turned up in Type, a daughter of Publisher, racing for E. Drillon and ridden by Goodrich. The filly dominated the running throughout. Publisher also sired the place horse, Advertiser, racing for W. M. Mikel, with P. T. Chinn's French Brigade third. A field of eleven started, with opinion well divided. Goodrich rushed Type away fast and crossed over from the outer position to the rail. In so doing, he caused some interference in which the insiders suffered. She nevertheless had a wide margin over Advertiser. The latter had a fair advantage over French Brigade which closed with a rush through the stretch run.

C. U. Boxers Hosts Tonight In Feature of Heavy Card

Meet W. & L. Team in Headline Event of Busy College Day.

VARSITY boxers of Washington and Lee and Catholic University meet tonight in the local feature of the season's most extensive program for Washington college teams which will be in action in the ring, on the basket-ball court, on track and field and in the swimming tank at home and abroad in a total of ten events.

While the Cardinals are mixing with the Generals at the Brookland gymnasium, Georgetown's boxers will be meeting an undefeated Army team at West Point in an effort to reverse the decisive defeat suffered at the hands of the Cadets last year.

Catholic and Washington and Lee battled to a memorable draw at Lexington last season, and both are intent on scoring decisively tonight. The Generals are bringing in Sloshberg, their 125-pounder, one of the most polished fighters in collegiate ranks. He has outclassed opponents in his two bouts this year. He will meet Di Giacomo, Cardinal featherweight.

Malevich to Fight In 2 Classes.

Heinie Miller, popular collegiate boxing referee, informed The Post last night that the intercollegiate boxing rules prohibit an athlete from competing in two classes and that it was unlikely that Capt. Jack Malevich would represent the Cardinals in both the light-heavyweight and heavyweight divisions.

Malevich volunteered to fill both posts earlier in the week.

George Washington, Maryland, Georgetown and American basket ball teams will see action during the course of the day and night. The Colonial cagemen visit Annapolis this afternoon to meet the Midshipmen at 2:30 o'clock, while tonight Maryland will play host to Virginia at College Park and Georgetown will face the strong Syracuse Five on the latter team's home floor. The Eagle quintet will be in Pittsburgh to seek revenge for a previous defeat inflicted by the Duquesne Five here.

Georgetown, Maryland Track Teams in Action.

Georgetown and Maryland trackmen will be seen in action in three meets. The Old Line varsity and freshmen teams will compete in the University of Virginia meet at Charlottesville. With the exception of Leo Sexton, who competes in a special high jumping event in the Boston A. A. games at Boston, the Hilltop athletes will seek honors in the Crescent A. C. meet at Brooklyn. The one-mile relay team will face the crack Colgate quartet in the Sammy Reid Memorial Trophy race.

Catholic's natators will go to Baltimore to oppose the Johns Hopkins swimmers tonight. Moon Mullen, fast stroking dash man, is expected to prove a heavy point-scorer for the Cardinal merman.

William and Mary Winner in Local Pool, 40-26.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY swimmers dropped their third meet of the season last night when a team of tankmen from the College of William and Mary outscored the Cardinals, 40 to 26, in the Brookland Pool. Capturing the first event, the relay, the Indians took the lead with 8 points, and from then on were never headed.

Phillips, high man of the victors, scored 10 points for his team by taking first place in both of the events in which he entered. He also was the lead-off man in the victorious relay quartet. Casey, also of William and Mary, was close behind with 8 points, wininng the fancy diving contest and taking second place in the 200-yard breaststroke race.

Mullen, of C. U., was the single home contestant to score in more than one event. He won the 440-yard dash and took second place in the 40-yard dash. Kane was the only other Brookland lad to capture a first place, the four other events being won by the Indians.

The summaries:

SWEEPSTAKE PIN EVENTS TONIGHT

Masonic, Agriculture Tourneys Feature Big Program.

THE Masonic and Agricultural League duckpin sweepstakes will close tonight. The Masonic League pinmen roll the final five-game block at Convention Hall and the Aggie alleymen travel the same route at the Coliseum. Sweepstakes will be held at practically every alley in the city and vicinity.

The Montgomery and Prince Georges County sweepstakes open this afternoon and tonight at Bethesda and Hyattsville, respectively. The Arcadia sweepstakes will be resumed tonight. Only women bowlers compete in this event. Betty Dugan led the field last week.

Open events are scheduled at King Pin No. 1 and No. 2. The stakes at Northeast Temple will be closed to District League bowlers as was the case last week. Another large field is expected to start in the stakes at Silver Spring, where Dick Peacock led a field of 35 last Saturday night.

Rex Team Faces Task in Battle With All-Stars.

Dave Cox's Rex team of the Recreation League, faces a big task tonight when it engages the Boulevard All-Stars under Bert Heil's supervision at the Recreation at 8 o'clock. The Boulevard pinmen took a 158-pin lead last week on their home alleys.

Ruppert holds a one-pin lead over Lyons in the Aggie sweepstakes, with Harry Dixon in third place, 35 pins behind the leader. The leaders in the Masonic stakes follow: W. Bruden, 642; J. Watts, 624; W. Dyre, 617; Sam Simon, 616; Arville L. Ebersole, 607.

Yale Swimmers Win From Navy Team, 44-18

Special to The Washington Post.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 14.—Yale tonight defeated the Navy swimmers, 44 to 18, capturing five of seven events. The Navy won the 50-yard dash, in which Phillips, sprinting ace, wrested victory from Messimer in an eyelash finish. In the 100-yard event, Mustin of the visitors splashed to the finish leading Lincoln of Yale by 2 feet. Manuel's high quality fancy diving gave Yale that event with a point record of 93, two over Lucas, Navy diver. Yale scored first and second in the 440-yard distance swim with Osborne and Leedy and, in the 150-yard back stroke, with Cahill and Payne. No records were broken, but the century swim time of 55 2-5 seconds ranked as excellent.

Howland, Yale's sprinting ace, was unable to compete because of an injury received last week. In the fancy dive Glascock was handicapped by accidentally striking his shoulder on the board attempting a backward dive. In general the time made was disappointing. The Navy failed to score two men in any event.

50-YARD SWIM—Won by Phillips (Navy); second, Messimer (Yale); third, Butler (Yale). Time, 0:25 1-5.

440-YARD SWIM—Won by Osborne (Yale); second, Leedy (Yale); third, Mustin (Navy).

FANCY DIVING—Won by W. Manuel (Yale), 93.2 points; second, Lucas (Navy); third, Glascock (Yale).

150-YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Cahill (Yale); second, Payne; third, Simons (Navy). Time, 1:50 4-5.

200-YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Millard (Yale); second, McDougal (Navy); third, Mercer (Yale). Time, 2:39 4-5.

100-YARD DASH—Won by Mustin (Navy); second, Lincoln (Yale); third, Brines (Yale). Time, 0:55 2-5.

Nat Manager Worried by Marberry

Big Pitcher, Offered Increase, Has Not Yet Signed.

Washington Box Ace Being Counted Upon Heavily for 1930.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WHILE Manager Walter Johnson is interested in seeing all of the members of his last season's cast come into the 1930 fold, he is particularly anxious that Pitcher Fred Marberry an dthe Washington Club come to a salary agreement in the very near future.

Among the several weaknesses of the Nationals last season was their inability to trot out capable pitchers with any degree of frequency, and Johnson makes no bones of the fact that he conisders Marberry the ace of his staff and is counting upon him strongly in his plans for the coming season.

With President Clark Griffith yielding the pruning knife with reckless abandon, it might be mentioned that Marberry was perhaps the only Nat flinger whose 1929 work entitles him to a raise in salary. Before leaving for the Biloxi camp last week, the Nat owner intimated that he also viewed things in this light and that "Firpo" was offered a salary increase.

Johnson Believes Terms Are Satisfactory.

Whether or not Marberry wants still more money than was offered him is not known, but Manager Johnson stated last night that, in view of the fact that no protests, or, in fact, any word at all, had been received from Marberry, it is his opinion that the big pitcher is planning to sign but simply has beein in no hurry about doing so.

Should Marberry fail to come to terms, it would be a calamity, indeed. Ever since he joined the Nationals, with the exception of one season, he has been one of their mound dependencies and his "iron man" ability has made baseball history for him. Last season he was the only Washington flinger making what might be termed a creditable showing.

Big Pitcher Took Part in 49 Games.

In the entire league, and with a team which did not play well behind him, he was fifth in effectiveness, granting opponents an average of but 3.06 earned runs. Marberry participated in 49 contests, mixing in relief shifts with his regular assignments, and won 49 games, while being charged with 12 defeats, for a percentage of .613.

As Marberry stood head and shoulders above his mates, it is no wonder that Manager Johnson is worried over his failure to pay any attention to the contract offered him.

Carnera Matched With Giant Negro

Philadelphia, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Peter Tyrell, matchmaker, announced today that he had matched Primo Carnera, the giant Italian, and Ace Clark, 235-pound, 6-foot 7-inch Negro, for a ten-round bout here on March 3. Clark has knocked out within the past year Big Boy Peterson and Elzear Rioux, the first two victims of Carnera's American tour.

Tyrrell said he made the match after a telephone talk with Leon See and Billy Duffy, Carnera's managers, who are at Hot Springs, Ark.

Central Runs Wild Over Landon, 44 to 4

Landon expected a licking when it opposed the Central High tossers yesterday but it didn't expect to oppose the Blue and White regulars for more than a short time during the game. Instead of being content with a mere victory, however, Coach Bert Coggins "rubbed it in" on the youngsters from the new school, by playing his first-string combination over most of the route and when the final whistle was blown the score was 41 to 4. Coggins agreed to have the contest termed a "practice" one.

At the very end, Coggins did send in three substitutes, but the rout was complete. George Brandt and Wilbur Cross the former with five field goals, led the Central bombardment, each scoring 10 points. Farhood, with four double-deckers and a foul toss, was close behind. The score at the half was 35 to 1.

Catcher Riddle Goes To Chisox in Trade

Indianapolis, Feb. 13 (A.P.).—Johnny Riddle, youthful catcher for the Indianapolis Baseball Team of the American Association, was traded to the Chicago White Sox today for Clarence Hoffman, an outfielder, and Clyde Crouse, a catcher.

William E. Clauer, secretary of the local club, said no cash was involved in the deal. Riddle was second-string catcher for Indianapolis last season, but developed fast toward the end of the summer. Crouse has been with the White Sox for several years. Hoffman was obtained by that team two years ago, Clauser said.

14 Events Make Up Card For Navy Athletes Today

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 14.—Varsity and Freshmen athletes of Annapolis midshipmen will compete today in a program of indoor events that for variety and number has perhaps never been equaled in college circles.

Fourteen contests in all will be run off, the card calling for twelve events at home and two away. Boxing has come to be the outstanding attraction at the academy, just as it is gaining much headway in other colleges, and the meet on Saturday will be with the representatives of the University of Pennsylvania. The bouts will take place in the evening, all other events being scheduled for the afternoon.

Both Navy and Penn are members of the Intercollegiate Boxing Association, hence the match will attract additional interest by reason of furnishing something of an index to the tournament finals to be staged during the latter part of March.

Leaving New Haven after the Yale meet tonight, the Middies go to New York Saturday to meet Columbia in water polo and swimming. Columbia is always a troublesome contender, especially in swimming.

Contests for Navy Varsity Teams at home on Saturday, in addition to boxing, are:

Basketball, George Washington University; gymnastics, Temple University; wrestling, Lehigh; small-bore rifle match, Virginia Military Institute.

The Plebes will engage in the following: Boxing, Cook Academy, of Contour, N. Y.; wrestling, Virginia Military Institute Freshmen; basketball, Tome School; swimming and water polo, Baltimore Polytechnic; gymnastics, Mercersburg Academy; small-bore rifle match, Western High School, of Washington.

The Varsity Fencing Team, which has been going strong so far, will be at New Haven for a contest with foils, saber and epee.

CARNERA AT EASE AS FOE IS COUNTED OUT

Scott, Crude at Jabbing, Is Easy Mark For Sharkey Now, Asserts Mike McTigue

Veteran Says Briton Must Improve 50% to Have Chance.

By NED BROWN.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 14 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—"In order to have a chance with Jack Sharkey, Phil Scott must improve 50 per cent between now and the date set for the fight," according to bold Michael McTigue. And Mike should know, for he fought ten sizzling rounds with the Boston gob, and he studied Scott carefully in his workouts with every one of his sparring partners. Scott isn't half the boxer that Tommy Loughran is, in the opinion of Mike, who was no slouch as a boxer himself.

Mike agrees with me, and with everybody here that Scott needs better sparring partners. To this Jimmy Johnston answers plaintively: "But where are you going to get them?" and nobody knows, although aside from Jack DeMave and Jack Renault, the English champion would be better off merely punching the heavy bag.

Mike sat beside me in the broiling sun, the heat rays sizzling up from the wooden stand as we watched Scott go through his boxing maneuvers.

Is Stationary After Jabbing.

"Just look at that," ejaculated McTigue, as he pointed out the flaws in the Englishman's technique, "he jabs that left and then he stands there, instead of stepping back. These fellows are all boring in wildly, and still Scott stands there and clashes with them. What he ought to be doing is to step back and make 'em miss.

"See there? If he had stepped back out of the way of that lunge of Renault's, Jack would have gone sailing right through the ropes.

And Step Back. Should Stab Sharkey

"Mr. Sharkey can box a whole lot better than most people think," went on Mike, "and he's cunning. You won't see him doing like these sparring partners. When he finds out that Scott can't hit—that is, he can't hit commensurate with his size and strength—Sharkey'll walk right into Scott and it'll be murder in the first. I just spent the better part of half an hour telling Scott what to do; how to knock down that outstretched left hand of his opponent's and swipe over the right. But he doesn't do it.

"He's supposed to be a boxer, and he's not showing any of what James Joseph Tunney, esq., alludes to as the finer points of the science of boxing. Phil should knock down that left. The way to fight Sharkey is to stab him and step back, making him miss his counter; stab him and step back, and keep on doing just that. By and by Mister Sharkey would get discouraged, and then Scott could outpoint him.

"That's what I did to Sharkey, and everybody'll tell you I had him badly outpointed until I got a cut artery from a bridgework that was knocked up into my gums When they couldn't stop the flow of blood the referee stopped the fight. Sure, it went as a technical knockout against me, but that decision doesn't begin to tell the story of the fight."

Later in the dressing room I heard McTigue tell Scott all over again what was wrong with his boxing Scott listened politely enough, but he didn't seem to grasp what the one-time light-heavyweight champion was telling him.

Outside, McTigue voiced his opinion that Scott was "dead."

"You tell him something, and from his explanation you don't know whether he is getting you or not," said McTigue. From which I gather that Mr. McTigue believes the English champion is in sort of a perpetual haze. Which may or may not be true.

Primo Carnera Stops Foe in First Round

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 14 (A.P.). Primo Carnera, huge Italian battler, knocked out big Jim Sigman, of South Carolina, in the first round of their eight-round bout here tonight.

The fight was as one-sided as have been all of Carnera's previous matches in this country. Sigman went down and out in 1:35 of the first round after taking eight or nine heavy rights and lefts to the body and face. He landed only two blows, neither of sufficient force to hurt the mammoth Italian.

St. John's Five Wins From LaSalle, 30-29

Before a crowd which packed the Vermont Avenue Gymnasium to capacity, St. John's Cadets evened matters with the LaSalle Prep Team, of Cumberland, last night, when it was returned the winner, 30 to 29, in a closely fought game which was not decided until the last minute of play. A week ago the Cadets had dropped a 30-to-28 decision to the same team at the Maryland stronghold.

After getting a 13-to-5 lead in the first quarter, the home team was outplayed in the second period to find itself on the short end of a 19-to-16 count at intermission. Rallying, however, St. John's returned to its best form at the resumption of play and tied the score at 24-all as the third quarter ended. During the last quarter the lead changed hands three times, but with the score 27 to 26 against them, Eugene Augusterfer and Batch came through with 2-pointers that put the game on ice for St. Jon's. uddy Gallagher, with 9 points, led the winning assault.

Western Five Routs Georgetown Prep, 31-11

Holding Georgetown Prep to three goals, two of which were made in the last half, Western had little trouble in disposing of the Garrett Park lads yesterday in the Western Gymnasium, winning 31 to 11. With the exception of a long shot by Ruddy Monk, the Prepmen were shut out throughout the entire first half, which ended 17 to 2.

In contrast to the losers' style of play, which saw each of their goals registered by the long distance route, was the attack of the high school team, which was featured by the near shooting of each of the Western players. Faced by an edict of Coach Moore, who threatened to remove any Red and White player who attempted a shot outside of the 15-foot line, the boys from across the creek worked the ball in close under the basket at times, registering the majority of their 10 field goals on "snowbirds."

With the exception of Bob Freeman, Western's regular were not long in the game, the work being equally divided among thirteen players. Freeman and Paul Chatlen lead the victorious attack, each scoring 7 points, with the latter registering three times from the floor.

Gallaudet Five Bows To Shepherds College

Special to The Washington Post.

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Feb. 14.—Shepherds College earned a close decision over the Gallaudet cagers of Washington here tonight in the Shepherds College Gym, 33 to 27. Bergdoll, of the victors, and Cosgrove, of the losers, rival right forwards, shared the scoring honors with 10 points each. Remage was a big aid to the winning cause.

The contest was close and hard fought from start to finish. Neither team had a commanding lead at any stage and the ultimate decision was always in doubt.

Gonzaga Is Extended By Leonard Hall Five

Gonzaga basketers journeyed to Leonardtown yesterday afternoon and administered a 17-to-13 beating to the Leonard Hall Five. The home team presented a zone defense which was particularly effective in the small gymnasium and which was responsible for keeping Gonzaga from scoring more than seven double-deckers.

It was not until near the end of the third quarter that Gonzaga could take the lead, trailing 6-8 at the half. Leonard Hall comes here for a return game on February 27.

Nebraskan's Early Lead Is Futile

17,000 See Unorthodox Fighter Win Seven Rounds.

No Knockdowns Registered; Decision Is Unanimous.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska Wildcat, collided with the cuffing paws of Maxey Rosenbloom in Madison Square Garden tonight and wound up at the end of ten rounds looking like a bedraggled but very tame tabby cat.

Slapsey Maxie, just as wild as the Cat and as unorthodox as a ring full of southpaws, slammed and hauled at Hudkins, clouted him from every angle and brought roars of delight from a packed house of 17,000 that saw as rough a shindig as ever was staged in the big battle pen. There was not a murmur of disapproval at the unanimous decision of the judges and referee in Rosenboom's favor.

The Harlem Harlequin, taking Hudkins as his final prep for a light heavyweight title battle with Jimmy Slattery and in his own naive fashion training for the struggle on a shave and a haircut, made the ferocious appear ridiculous at times. He filled Hudkins with left jabs, led with right-hand punches that rarely missed, pulled, tugged and hauled the ace dizzy, and at the close was bouncing around like a circus clown.

Maxey Clamps His Opponent.

Hudkins, making his light heavyweight debut in New York fresh from a knockout victory over Arthur Flynn in Boston, strove mightily to slug the issue out at close quarters, but Maxey clamped him into submission. The ace swung, hooked, jabbed and tried everything in the fistic book, but Rosenbloom refused to stay where the Wild Cat aimed, and insisted on slugging back from the most outlandish positions.

The Ace, fresh and confident, managed to win the first round by chasing Rosenbloom all over the ring and slugging whatever part of Maxey's anatomy was available. He won the second by a shade with the same tactics, but Rosenbloom, warmed to his task, turned in the third with his bewildering attack and Hudkins' period of dominance was over.

With the exception of the seventh round, when Rosenbloom, infuriated by low blows, turned and tried to slug with the Wildcast only to lose the round, Hudkins could not win another session. The fans cheered the rough fellow from Nebraska on, his trainers exhorted him, he tried everything he had, but as Maxey continued to slap him about the ring, Hudkins wilted. At the end his bedraggled expression plus the water that dripped from his blond hair, left him bristling still like a wildcat, but rather like one that had just been tossed into a river.

Hudkins Lands Low Blows.

Several times during the struggle Hukins, in his wild tantrums, landed several low blows. Instead of complaining to the referee, Maxey put on a burst of speed with each low blow and smashed out his venom on Hudkins' blond head. There was a great deal of rough work, and both were inclined to keep right on punching after the final bells for the rounds. There were no knockdowns, and neither was cut or badly bruised at the close.

Many times the frantic Hudkins urged Rosey to come in and fight. Each request resulted in Maxey turning on steam and cuffing Hudkins all over the ring. The general result was a highly exasperated wildcat, and in the end a completely beaten but game gladiator.

TECH HIGH QUINTET BOWS TO G. W. FRESHMEN, 38-36

School Team Gains Lead In Vain

Carlin's Goal Breaks Tie Near End, Wins for Yearlings.

Tech Trails at Half, 20-16; MacCartee Is Missed.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

PLAYING on eight of the ten legs which captured the interhigh court championship — but with the two missing the most important pair—Tech's basket ball team came within an ace of upsetting the George Washington University Freshmen yesterday afternoon when it dropped a 38-to-36 thriller on the McKinley floor. Capt. MacCartee, the keynote of Tech's play all year, who was declared ineligible for playing with an outside team last Sunday, had a seat in the stands, from which point he watched two substitutes try in vain to stop Colonial forwards from running wild throughout the afternoon.

MacCartee certainly would have come in handy yesterday, especially during the second half, when the high school lads, after a long uphill fight, finally managed to forge into a lead, which they held for several minutes.

Scholastics Rally In 2nd Half.

After a close first half, which ended with the G. W. Cubs ahead, 20 to 16, the high school champs flashed a complete reversal of form, holding their opponents scoreless from the floor until the second minute of play in the final quarter and limiting their sum total to 2 points, made by Zahn on foul tosses immediately at the resumption of play.

While being thus held in check, the Freshmen were forced to feel the same come-back power of the scholastics that four other high schools tasted in the championship series, and before they could realize the situation, the score had been tied at 22-all. Everett Russell, that dashing young forward of the title-holders, contributed four of the six points which knotted the score, the tying points coming when he spun around in front of the basket to send the ball through the cords. A moment later "J. B." Olverson tapped one in following a mixup under the basket, and Tech was ahead for the first time, 24 to 22. Talburtt and Lassise added three more points on a snowbird and foul toss, respectively.

Connor Leads in Deciding Rally.

At the start of the last quarter, the Freshmen gradually overcame their hosts, when Player-coach Jack Connor, who had inserted himself into the game at the start of the second half, came through with three beautiful one-hand shots, his last sending the Cubs ahead again, 30-29. Two double-deckers by Mulvey increased the Yearlings' lead to five points, but after Beach had dribbled down the floor to register a pot shot for Tech, Reichardt intercepted a pass and dribbled in to put the champions within one point of a tie.

Carlin and Russell then registered two-pointers for their respective teams to leave the situation status quo, but Beach made good on a free attempt to once more tie the score. With less than a minute to play, Lee Carlin was found free under the basket to send the all-deciding points through the net, which gave G. W. the victory.

V. M. I.-POLY IN 4 MEETS TODAY

Varsity and Cubs to Oppose in Basket ball, Boxing.

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 14.—Four V. M. I. teams will clash with V. P. I., their oldest rivals, Saturday when varsity and freshman basket ball games are played at Lexington and a double-header boxing meet is held at Blacksburg. The Virginia wrestlers will also come to Lexington to meet the Cadet Varsity, and the Cadet Freshmen will meet the Navy Plebes on the mat at Annapolis.

Prospects for victories Saturday are brightest for the varsity wrestlers, who won their second shut-out meet and their first conference engagement last week in downing N. C. State, 32 to 0. Coach Hesmer's matmen had previously blanked William and Mary 34 to 0 in the opening meet. The freshman team, which has broken even so far in two meets with Augusta Military Academy, is expected to make a good showing against the strong Navy Plebe outfit.

Last Action for Cadet Matmen Until Tourney.

V. M. I. varsity and Freshman teams furnished stiff opposition before losing last week in boxing to the Army and Navy, respectively. The V. P. I. meet will be the last contest of the season for the varsity until the conference tournament at Charlottesville, and both Cadet teams are training hard in the hope of outpunching the Techmen.

V. P. I. teams have already defeated the Cadets in basket ball this season, and the V. M. I. cagers are anxious to even the score in the return engagement. Last week Coach Raftery's quintet dropped three hard games, getting a slow start against Davidson and fading in the second half against both Sewanee and William and Mary after playing a fast, even game in the first period.

The basket ball game with the V. P. I. Varsity Saturday will be called at 7:15 p. m., and the wrestling meet with Virginia is scheduled for 8:30. The freshman game will be played at 3 p. m.

Virginia Teams Busy In Five Sports Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 14.—Virginia teams will be in action in five winter sports tomorrow. The track and swimming teams will perform at home while the basket ball, boxing and wrestling squads will invade foreign territory.

Cavalier varsity and first year track and field men will play host tomorrow night at Virginia's sixth annual indoor invitation games in which almost 300 athletes from Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and the District of Columbia have been entered.

Washington and Lee's varsity and freshman swimming teams come over from Lexington tomorrow afternoon for a double-header, meeting the Virginia tank. Capt. Maury and his natators hope to head the Generals in this pool event.

Two Virginia boxing teams, varsity and first year, left at noon today for Durham, N. C., where they will go in the ring tomorrow night against Duke University. This is the last contest of the season away from home for both the fistic squads.

The basket ball team will also play its last game away tomorrow night when it meets Maryland in College Park. The Cavalier courtmen are anxious to defeat the Old Liners, for they have only one victory to their credit against a Southern Conference team.

W. and L. High Beats Geo. Mason Five, 41-16

Washington and Lee High Driblers, of Ballston, yesterday held their runner-up position in the race for third district honors by defeating the George Mason Quintet, 41 to 16, in the Alexandria Armory. The game was one-sided all the way.

Ball, with 14 points, was the game's high scorer.

Takoma Fans to Fete Nat Rookie Monday

Alvin Powell, slugging outfielder of the Takoma Tigers, will be feted at a testimonial to be given by his teammates next Monday night at the Masonic Hall in Takoma Park beginning at 8 o'clock.

Powell, signed by Clark Griffith of the Washington Nationals, last August, after being "scouted" in a game in which he collected six bingles in seven times at bat, including a homer, triple, three doubles and a single, will leave with the first contingent of Nationals, February 25.

The testimonial will be marked by an attractive program arranged by J. B. Simpson, president of the Tigers; Paul James, manager, and Garret Waters, business manager. Speeches and entertainment are the order.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, VA., Feb. 14.—Coach Fleming will take his Cherry and Black tossers from Episcopal High School tomorrow to Winchester to play the Shenandoah Valley Academy Five. The Episcopalians have played their last four games on foreign courts and so far have broken even. Tomorrow's game should be their hardest battle. The Valley boys are led by Jack Martin, an Alexandrian. He is the high point scorer of the team and its success is due largely to his clever playing at forward. Coach Fleming has been drilling his players hard for this game and the starting line-up will be picked from the following: Cleveland, Nalle and McDonald, forwards; Hancock and Morgan, center, and Hood, Train and Orrick, guards.

Alexandria High School Five will get back in the fight for the third district honors tomorrow night, when it battles the fast Fredericksburg High School in the local Armory Hall, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Alexandria is now leading the race with four wins and no defeats, while Washington and Lee is second with three wins and one defeat. Coach Reynolds will start the following team: Capt. Sinclair and Stone or Shriner, forwards; Jeff Williams, center; Pete Williams and Sperling or Backus, guards.

N. C. U. FIVE READY FOR DUKE

Blue Devils Promised Real Fight Tonight by Tarheels.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Feb. 14.—With inspired confidence as a result of their sensational 14-point rally against the strong Loyola Team, the Tarheel Quintet is planning to take the offensive and play its best game to date against Duke in Durham Saturday night.

That 14-point rally against Loyola may mean much to the Tarheels. They lost 26-25, but not before a great fight. In nine minutes they moved from 11-22 to 25-22 on a team that but recently rounded out a 34-game winning streak.

The Phantoms therein had accomplished their first great offensive of the year. They did it on a burst of speedy play, with long shots by Marpet, Greene and Brown, two crips by Neiman, a short by Harper, and a couple of fouls.

Tarheels Likely to Change Style of Play.

The Tarheels played mostly a defensive style ball, as they lost a previous contest to Duke by the unexpected margin of 35-14. Tarheel supporters are thinking that, as a result of this Loyola battle, it may be an offensive Carolina team that takes the floor against Devils Saturday night.

If psychology means anything the result should be a big factor for the Tarheels. The paper dopesters counted Duke and Carolina near even before their last game. The Heels had had a 2-point better margin over Wake Forest, and the Devils a 2-point better margin over State.

The fast Duke club took the floor to play confident, offensive ball, the Carolina club to play defensive ball, and the offensive style won by a big margin.

Coach Jim Ashmore believes the old ring adage that "the bigger they are, the harder they fall," applies also to basketball, and will be sending his team out Saturday night with the idea that the quint that gets the jump and shows the most speed and dogged drive and determination can win.

Duke Favored, But Tarheels Promise Battle.

Duke still has a big edge on the odds as a result of the last game, but Tarheel supporters are agreed on one point—that the score Saturday night isn't going to be anything like 35-14.

Woodberry Five Beats Danville Cadets, 31-22

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodberry Forest, Va., Feb. 14.—The Danville Military Institute Quintet dropped a 31-to-22 verdict here this afternoon to Woodberry Forest. Until the final quarter the game was a nip and tuck affair, with the locals out in front throughout by but a slim margin. The play during the entire first half was somewhat listless, but after the intermission both teams seemed to come back to life and the contest speeded up considerably, with Woodberry gradually increasing its lead. The last quarter saw Woodberry inaugurate a final spurt, in which Capt. Lassiter played a prominent role, and forged ahead to a comfortable lead. The play of Lassire Lassiter featured the local victory, while Goble and Chatten played a consistent brand of ball for the losers.

W. and L. Yearling Five Beats Bluefield Cubs

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Feb. 14.—Washington and Lee's freshmen basketers reentered the win column here tonight by decisively trouncing Bluefield College freshmen by the score of 41 to 26. The visitors led the Little Generals at half time, 18 to 16, but W. and L.'s second period offensive was too strong for Bluefield.

Headquarters Company Brentwood Fives Win

The Headquarters Company and Brentwood Hawk fives scored victories in Tri-County League games in the Laurel National Guard armory last night. The former team romped to victory over the Independents, 39 to 17, while the Hawks put on a great rally to down the Berwyn A. C quintet, 28 to 18.

Berwyn battled on even terms with the Hawks until the final five-minute period started. The Hawks stepped out in that interval and took a ten-point lead.

IRREGULAR ADVANCE MARKS STOCKS' DAY

Several Industrials and Rails Hit New Highs for Recovery.

CALL MONEY IS FIRMER

New York, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—The stock market continued to make uneven progress today. Several leading industrials and rails were bid up 2 to 12 points to new high levels for the recovery, but the market was filled with cross currents. And a wide sprinkling of shares closed lower. There was little change in the pace of trading, total sales exceeding 3,500,000 shares.

An unexpected firming of call money in the early afternoon encouraged the bear element, and the market sold off substantially for a time, but speculators for the rise regained control of the movement before the close. Week-end lightening of accounts was in evidence during much of the day, probably augmented by a precautionary tone in many brokerage house advices, which indicated some uneasiness over the market's technical position.

The weekly mercantile and industrial reviews, however, were more cheerful than for some weeks past. Both Dun's and Bradstreet's stated that trade and industry has shown steady improvement of late. Activity still holds substantially below the levels of a year ago, and improvement is not uniform, but the recovery appears to be broadening. It was particularly gratifying to Wall street that the mercantile reports indicated slightly better wholesale and retail trade, after several weeks of marked sluggishness.

Call Loan Rate Advances.

An advance in the call loan rate from 4 to 4½ per cent was caused by withdrawals estimated at about $60,000,000.

The steel shares displayed outstanding strength, with U. S. Steel rising more than 4 points to a new high for the year at 189¼. Other steels were also strong, notably Republic, which made an extreme gain of about 6 points in a large turnover. Youngstown made a similar advance.

A buoyant feature was Eastman Kodak, which sold up 12 points to 205, a new peak for 1930, but about 60 points below the 1929 top. American Machine & Foundry sold up 10 points and Air Reduction, American Tobacco, Canadian Pacific, Consolidated Gas, International Telephone, Liggett & Myers, Western Union, Stone & Webster, and Westinghouse Electric chalked up fair gains. New York Central was a leader in the rails, rising about 5 points to a new 1930 top at 192¾.

Oils and Coppers Sag.

Oils and coppers were inclined to sag. The oil shares were influenced by definite indications that Standard of New Jersey was winning the rest of the industry over to its lower price level for midcontinent crude. Copper shares eased on reports that red metal producers' hopes of lower prices had been revived by the January statistics of stocks on hand, and that buying had turned slack. Pressure against Simmons and Gillette was renewed, and both touched new lows for the movement, although they rallied substantially before the close. American Can and General Electric closed off more than a point each. Norfolk & Western dropped 7 points, then rallied 3.

In the commodity markets, grains again turned heavy. Wheat futures lost about 2 cents a bushel, reflecting a bearish Government estimate of the winter crop. Corn sagged about ½ cent on large receipts at the markets. Cotton futures fluctuated widely but closed firm at advances of 20 to 55 cents a bale.

Foreign exchanges eased moderately. Sterling cables were quoted at $4.86 3-16, off 1-16 and the lowest in weeks.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—With no adequate export outlet in sight and with United States 1930 wheat production threatening to show another surplus, wheat values underwent sharp setbacks today. North American wheat export clearances for the week were announced as only 5,203,000 bushels, an amount below either the week previous or a year ago. Export purchases today from the United States and Canada together were but 400,000 bushels, mostly Canadian.

Under heavy selling from commission houses wheat collapsed in some cases nearly 3 cents a bushel here, and closed nervous, 1¾ to 2¾ lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¾@1½ to ¾ cent down, with oats ¾@1½ to 1 cent off, but provisions showing 5 to 10 cents advance.

Throughout the day wheat values here showed a decided downward trend. Breaks in Liverpool quotations preceded Chicago weakness, and were associated with reports of cheaper offerings of Argentina wheat and of increasing pressure of unsold Canadian wheat afloat for Europe. It was also being asserted that there have been extra large yields of rye in European countries and that new wheat import duties abroad have been making wheat prices relatively excessive to European consumers.

Indications of almost utter lack at present of foreign demand for United States wheat were later given additional bearish effect by official reports that under normal conditions this season the domestic wheat harvest will show yields well above home requirements. In this connection unofficial summaries at hand suggested that crop damage to domestic winter wheat so far is inconsequential, subsoil moisture low temperatures have would catch most of the wheat bare of snow. Late reports from Winnipeg that the British government may take 30,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and ship it out from Montreal in the spring were regarded here as bearish, implying lessened chance of export business from the United States.

Corn and oats went lower with wheat and as a result of continued favorable weather for movement of corn.

Provisions responded to estimates that Western stocks of lard total only 90,000,000 pounds, compared with 140,000,000 pounds a year ago.

ACTIVE MART NOTED IN TELEPHONE BONDS

Convertible Rails Are Also in Demand at Session Otherwise Slack.

NEW ISSUES ARE LARGER

New York, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Communication company bonds played leading roles in today's market. Aside from those issues and a couple of convertible rails, the list had little depth and net changes in seasoned obligations were in minor fractions.

American Telephone debenture 5s of 1960 and 1965 moved in large volume, but got nowhere. The combined turnover for the two was approximately $650,000, principal amount, almost evenly divided. The convertible 4½s, showing transactions of about $730,000, touched the year's high at 152 and then eased off for no net change.

The recently issued International Telephone 5s were active, but failed to vary from the previous close. The same company's convertible debenture gained ¾ on the day.

Convertibles Sell Briskly.

Santa Fe convertible 4½s and Chicago North Western 4¾s, another popular stock-privilege bond, traded briskly. Dealings were especially heavy in the former, which sold up to the new 1930 high of 140½. At the closing quotation of 140 the bond was up a point from the Thursday final on total sales of slightly more than $350,000.

Standard rails of all grades were dull. There was virtually no change in Atchison general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New Haven 4¼s, and St. Louis San Francisco prior lien 4s. Pennsylvania gold 5s sagged ⅜. Southern Railway listings displayed better than average activity and ruled firm.

The sharpest moves of the day were again in the Wickwire Spencer Steel listings, which rose to the best levels in months, reflecting a belief that the report of the master appointed to settle issues involved in suits to foreclose the mortgages would be ready soon. The certificates of deposit for the first 7s advanced 4¾, while the convertible 7s rallied 3⅞.

Other Issues Quiet.

Otherwise the industrials, and the utilities as well, were quiet. Columbia Gas & Electric 5s (May) lost half a point. Lackawanna Steel 5s dropped 1½ to 100, the lowest of the year. Shell Union Oils 5s rose a shade in transactions of fair size. Schulco 6½s made another advance, the "A" bond mounting 4 points and the "B" 1. Western Union Collateral 5s, which had not been traded since the recent offering of gold 5s by the company, fell 2 points. The listed gold 5s firmed.

United States Governments eased on higher money rates. Call loans advanced to 4½ from the renewal rate of 4 as banks drew in funds for their mid-month requirements. Time accommodations advanced slightly. Treasury 4¼s declined about a quarter point and Liberty Fourth 4¼s lost an eighth.

Activity in foreign bonds dwindled. Brazilian 6½s, the Colombian Bank issues, French Republic 7½s and 7s and Cuba 5s improved. Rio Grande do Sul 7s were soft.

New offerings of the week reached the total of $150,465,000 compared with $62,473,000 last week and $73,874,000 in the corresponding period a year ago. Three issues, the Cuba, Western Union and Morris & Essex Railroad loans, accounted for $100,000,000 of the current volume.

BANKER POINTS OUT PRICE OF PROGRESS

Men Who Won Success by Hard Work and Study Are Cited.

BUILDING BIDS SOUGHT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Following the theme, "Paying the Price of Progress," Dr. Eliot H. Thomson, manager, publicity department, Washington Loan & Trust Co., addressing the annual banquet of Norfolk-Portsmouth Chapter, American Institute of Banking, at Norfolk, Va., last night, cited famous men in past and present history, who achieved success by hard work, sacrifice, perseverance and diligent study.

"That is what our chapter members are doing," he continued: "It is the bank clerk, man or woman, with both ambition and vision, who is willing to pay the price of membership, of evenings given up to classes and other evenings studying the textbooks and literature; who are willing, too, to put their shoulder to the wheel and pusn with the chapter officers in their work of bettering the banking business by filling it with trained men."

"Progress has pushed the banks out of the staid and dignified position of the past into the limelight of publicity. Not competition so much as cooperation has forced this forward step. With a fuller comprehension of their responsibility to the public came the publication of reports of condition which inspired the confidence of the public. Along came the war and the Liberty bond issues that cost the banks time and money and sweat. The Christmas Clubs played their part to the vast advantage of the community, but at a cost to the banks that is still a matter of argument whether they derive any direct profit. New bank buildings and remodeled old ones are illustrations, too, of the price banks must pay for progress. Newspaper advertising plays a vital part in the progress we are making. It is a part of the price we pay, but we get our money's worth in greater service to a greater clientele and dividends keep increasing, too."

Indications of a possible early expansion of the American Security & Trust Co.'s building were revealed yesterday by the forwarding of tentative proposals for bids to various local contractors.

The action, it was emphasized by bank officials, does not mean a definite decision to enlarge the institution at this time, a careful consideration of the estimates being first in order before a decision to award contracts or postpone the work.

The expansion of the institution has been under consideration more than two years, however, one tentative plan calling for a uniform elevation of lower buildings now used by the bank, along Fifteenth street between its main structure at the northwest corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Fifteenth street and the Union Trust Co. building at the southwest corner of Fifteenth and H streets. Another contemplates additional stories to the main structure.

At the annual meeting of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of West Virginia in Charleston yesterday the present board of directors and officers were reelected. The directors are Thaddeus S. Clark, Charleston; Charles M. Gohen, Huntington; David A. Burt, Wheeling; Lloyd B. Wilson, Philip O. Coffin, Marshal D. Sedam and Deruelle S. Porter, Washington; Walter S. Gifford and Eugene S. Wilson, New York.

Officers of the company reelected were Lloyd B. Wilson, president; Marshal D. Sedam, Philip O. Coffin, John C. Koons and Burdett Stryker, vice presidents; Deruelle S. Porter, secretary; Thomas B. Clarkson, treasurer; Dozier A. DeVane, general counsel.

In its report to the stockholders the board of directors stated that during the next five years the company plans gross expenditures for improvements to the telephone system in West Virginia of approximately $18,590,000, with net additions of $9,500,000.

Thomas J. Groom, a vice president of the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank and for nine years connected with that institution, will become vice president and cashier of the Bank of Commerce & Savings, effective March 10, succeeding Frank Owings, associated with the latter institution sixteen years. Mr. Owings, who has resigned to give full time to personal business, has accepted election to the board of the Bank of Commerce & Savings.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Early advances were followed by reactions in the cotton market today, but after selling off from 16.18 to 15.95 for May, prices steadied on renewed trade buying and covering. May closed at 16.03, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 4 to 11 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 10 to 14 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables. The advance met considerable realizing, but it was readily absorbed, with the market working up to 15.91 for March, 16.33 for July and 16.53 for October during the early trading on covering or rebuying by recent sellers and a moderate trade demand. This advance carried near months to the highest prices they have reached since May sold at 15.26 last Saturday, and met increased offerings, under which the market soon turned easier.

If anything, the report of the Census Bureau showing domestic consumption of 577,235 bales for January, against 453,892 for December and 668,286 for January last year, was a shade under expectations. This may have increased the disposition to take profits on long contracts, and the market became rather nervous and unsettled during the middle of the day, with March declining to 15.69 and October to 15.30, or back to just about the closing quotation of yesterday. The offerings then tapered off and closing prices showed rallies of 7 to 9 points from the lowest on renewed covering.

The report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, showing that 76 per cent of the cotton ginned prior to January 16 this year was tenderable compared with 83.14 per cent to the same date last year, appeared to have little effect on the market. The figure showed a slightly smaller percentage of untenderable cotton than expected, but it was supposed that any cotton left in the fields on January 16 would be of very low grade, and have some effect on the final figures. Switching from near late months continued and the day's fluctuations were attributed largely to readjustments of the technical position.

Liverpool cables reported covering and trade calling in that market and said there was a broadening demand for cotton cloths with an improving turnover in yarns.

Port receipts today, 8,260 bales; United States port stocks, 2,271,840; exports, 18,491, making 5,217,733 so far this season.

CURB MARKET REVIEW

New York, Feb. 14 (A.P.). — The curb market developed several outbursts of strength today, but profit taking sales reached such large proportions in the last hour that the close was irregular. Except for the marking up of the call money rate from 4 to 4½ per cent, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement, but many traders sold stocks on the theory that many of the recent leaders were entitled to at least technical reaction after their spirited advance of the last few days.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore ran up nearly 10 points to 118⅞, and then dropped back almost as quickly to 111¼, up 1⅜. Electric Bond & Share encountered heavy realizing sales, closing 1⅜ points lower at 100⅜, after having sold as high as 102½, and as low as 99⅝. American Light & Traction fell 7 points, and American Gas & Electric and American & Foreign Power warrants about 2¾ each. United States Electric Power & Light opened at 22⅞, a new high, in response to the announcement that the Mellon interests had acquired a large block of the stock, but closed at 21⅛ for a small fractional gain. United Light & Power A advanced 1⅛ on a heavy turnover.

Airstocks, Inc., jumped 4 points on the announcement of a proposal to dissolve the company. National Investors, Third National Investors and Fourth National Investors recorded substantial gains, but Goldman Sachs Trading and Lehman were heavy. Oil stocks E sank 2⅜ to a new low at 8½. Pennroad advanced fractionally.

Oils moved within narrow and irregular limits, the decision of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co. in meeting the recent midcontinent cuts of Standard Oil units acting as a deterrent to any bull speculation in that group.

Niles Bement Pond ran up more than 3 points in anticipation of an early inauguration of dividends. Anchor Post Fence advanced to a new high for the year on buying influenced by the high dividend yield. There was a good demand for some of the natural gas stocks, particularly Dixie and American. The new when-issued stocks of Chesapeake & Ohio, Deere & Co. and Republic Steel all attracted a large following.

5 Days More of the Great 100,000 Extra Vote Offer

HURRY! Enter this campaign while you can participate in the advantages of the greatest extra vote offer that will be presented during the entire contest. Think of it! 100,000 EXTRA VOTES will be given for each $20 worth of new subscriptions turned in before 9 P. M. on Feb. 19. What an amazing opportunity for new candidates to achieve a vote standing equal to that of the first entrants or by a little extra effort to force themselves far in the lead. This advantage will never come again—during no other period of the campaign will subscriptions earn so many extra votes, and remember that it is votes alone that will determine to whom the Cadillac Sedan will be given, the eleven other big automobiles and the sixteen radios. Remember, too, that qualifying candidates who do not participate in the distribution of capital prizes will be paid liberal cash commissions for their work.

NOTE: 100,000 extra votes will be allowed to out-of-town candidates on subscriptions bearing postmarks not later than 9 p. m. on February 19th. Ask your postmaster when he must receive your letter in order to have it properly stamped. Subscriptions from local contestants must be received in the campaign office on the fifth floor of The Post Building, not later than 9 P. M., February 19.

PARENTS, TEACHERS ASK SCHOOL SURVEY

Lyon Park Association Urges County to Make Plans for Future Needs.

POSTOFFICE SITE IS SET

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Creation of a joint committee of the Parent-Teacher Associations of the county to study needs for additional school buildings is provided for in a resolution adopted by the Parent-Teacher Association of the Henry Clay School of Lyon Park at its monthly meeting held last night.

The resolution invites the other Parent-Teacher Associations of the county to join in the formation of a joint committee on enlarged school facilities, to consist of three members from each association. It will be the duty of the committee, according to the rseolution, "to make a study of the present requirements of Arlington County with respect to school buildings and the prospective requirements therefor over a reasonable future period; and to formulate recommendations as to the most suitable means of meeting such requirements."

Arthur Orr, author of the resolution, declared that the crowded conditions at the Lyon Park School are deplorable.

"One of the teachers," he said, "has the entire responsibility for the daily instruction of 90 children, who come to her in half-day shifts.

"With the question of the construction of a new jail, at a cost of $100,000, being agitated by two prominent county organizations, it is high time that some responsible group championed the cause of the school children of Arlington County," Mr. Orr declared.

It was announced yesterday that the new building to house the postoffice will be located at the intersection of the Wilson boulevard and Wheeler avenue.

The plans are now being completed by A. F. Thelander, architect of Arlington County. They call for a two-story building fronting on the boulevard for a distance of 65 feet, with a depth of 125 feet.

The building will be erected by Arthur C. McMillen, contractors of Arlington County. The construction will be of stone and concrete. It will contain 3,750 square feet of floor space.

The estimated cost will be $80,000. In addition to the postoffice, which will face the boulevard with lobby at the corner, there will be two store rooms. The receiving and loading platform for the postoffice will front on Wheeler avenue.

Ground will be broken for the building as soon as the plans and specifications can be completed, as it is necessary to have it completed ready for the department on July 15.

Mr. Spaulding stated that the building will be set back on the boulevard in accordance with the requirements of the new zoning laws even though they are not yet approved by the county board of supervisors.

Strong protest was voiced against the use, at present, of any part of the $500,000 received from the City of Alexandria as a final financial settlement in the recent annexation proceedings at a special meeting of the Arlington District Council of Citizens Associations held at the home of A. A. Moore, secretary, at this time.

The resolution, offered and adopted by the special committee headed by C. I. Kephart, chairman, Robert E. Freer and Dr. J. T. Wallace, sets forth that it is the opinion in some sections that the entire $500,000 should be expended in the remaining part of Jefferson district only, which would not only be illegal but would work a serious injury to the interests of Arlington and Washington districts.

It further points out that the District Council protests the allotment of this money by the county board of supervisors until the full needs of the county as a whole can be thoroughly determined and allotments made to meet those needs.

The resolution claims that the remainder of the funds legally belong to the county as a whole and should be held intact as a special fund for later disposition as the needs of the people of the county, after investigation and study, may be found to require.

Grover E. Payne was unanimously reelected president of the council. Other officers are: Dr. J. T. Wallace, first vice president; A. A. Moore, secretary-treasurer; and Robert E. Freer, counselor.

With less than 100 persons attending, the county board of supervisors held its public hearing on the zoning ordinance as approved by the Arlington County Zoning Commission, prior to its final adoption, at the courthouse yesterday.

Walter K. Handy, representing the citizens of Barcroft, presented a petition signed by 75 per cent of the residents asking that that section known as Block C and D, which has been zoned as light commercial, be changed to Residential A 2.

Robert N. Anderson, president of the Lyon Village Citizens Association, appearing as the representative of the citizens of the village, asked for changes in the zoning ordinance in that section fronting the village on the Lee highway between Rucker and Cherrydale avenues and along the Wilson boulevard from Oak street to Virginia avenue.

Walter C. McCarthy, representing the Washington Airport Corporation, stated that sections of the company's land near the Highway Bridge has been zoned industrial and other sections residential "B." He asked that it all be zoned as commercial, as that section was not suitable for a residential district.

Thomas Philips presented a petition asking that all of that section along the Lee highway on the south side, from the proposed site of the Sun Oil Co. for a distance of 1,000 feet, which is the property of Colin Livingston, be zoned commercial.

Edward Duncan, chairman of the board, stated that the board will consider all the suggestions and give its decision as to the final adoption of the ordinance within the next 30 days.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the James Monroe School held a bake sale in the schoolhouse yesterday which was well visited by the patrons of the school. It was announced that more than $20 was realized, which will be used for the benefit of school needs.

It was announced by the president, Mrs. John Walcott, that arrangements have been completed for the holding of a luncheon at the schoolhouse next Friday.

Mrs. Alton M. Brown, chairman of the finance committee, announces the other members of the committee are Mrs. Charles Wicks, Mrs. Lacy Woodyard, Mrs. L. R. Price, Mrs. P. A. Richmond, Mrs. M. E. Hann, Mrs. E. J. St. Jacques, Mrs. M. D. Wildman, Mrs. J. L. Mathusa, Mrs. O. B. Keys, Mrs. G. T. Lynch, and Mrs. K. Messick.

Helen Marcey, 13 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Marcey, of Marceytown, Arlington County, died at her home last night. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA says it always pays to do a good turn. I sometimes wonder.

Just as she and I were about to leave the house to keep an important engagement, the telephone rang. I'd have let 'er ring, but Luella's funny about that. "You never know," she says, "where lightning will strike." What phrases she coins.

'Twas no lightning this time—it was Luella's long-winded girl friend, Mary Jane.

"Oh, Mary Jane!" Luella exclaimed, "you must tell me all about how you and Roger made up your quarrel."

Mary Jane proceeded to oblige.

"Really?"

"He did? * * * You did?"

"Why, how could he have said such a thing? You aren't one bit too fat."

* * * *

"NO, you're not either. But if you really do want to lose a little here—or maybe up here"—Luella patted herself here and there as if television were already in use,—"I'd love to help you. My dear, I've heard of the most wonderful new diet—raw eggs and cabbage and——"

I gesticulated frantically, begged her to make it snappy. It was no use.

"And then three times a day you look at a tree and imagine yourself a slender young sapling——"

"Well, you can walk over to the park. There're plenty of trees there."

* * * *

TIME sped by. I paced the floor, pointed to the clock, opened the front door—all to no avail.

"We'll show that Roger if you're too fat or not! With this method you'll be so skinny he'll beg you to drink malted milks. All right, see you tomorrow!"

At last she was finished—but too late for us to keep our appointment downtown.

"You are the most selfish brute I've ever seen," Luella snapped at me. "Here I was trying to help Mary Jane get back her figure so's to please Roger, and you, you——"

* * * *

"BUT, Luella, we've missed the bus that would get us there in time and now there won't be another one for twenty minutes—and you know a big deal depended on my seeing Mr. Frederick."

"Well, never mind," flashed Luella, "we'll take a taxi—it'll just be a couple of dollars. Certainly Mary Jane's happiness is worth that much."

Well, so long as Mary Jane's happiness depends on it, I guess it's all right.

ANNAPOLIS BLAZES ARE CALLED ARSON

Fires in Two Schools Were Set, Special Detective Says After Inquiry.

COMMITTEE IS CHOSEN

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 14.—The fire of last Tuesday that seriously damaged Annapolis High School building and drove 650 pupils and a staff of 27 teachers to the street, was the work of an incendiary, according to a declaration today by Private Detective Joseph Dougherty, of Baltimore, who was sent here as a special investigator by State Insurance Commissioner Harrison Rider. He gave the same opinion concerning the fire in the grammar school building nearly two weeks ago. This fire occurred at night.

Dougherty centered his attention today on the high school fire, but referred to the fact that both blazes broke out under similar conditions, beneath the stage of the auditorium or assembly hall, in each instance. The detective's conclusion differs with that of Fire Marshal J. Fisher and other fire officials as to the high school fire. The local marshal maintains that this blaze was started by a defective chimney flue near the stage. Dougherty, however, asserts his investigation revealed charred woodwork beneath the stage. The flames, bursting out, spread to a curtain when they were discovered by pupils attending a music class in a room close to the auditorium. Any one could get in and out of the building, unmolested, he said.

Meanwhile, a special committee appointed by the county board of education is investigating general conditions of both buildings to determine the safety of holding classes in any of the rooms while repairs are being made. Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt heads this committee and the school board announced that it will be guided by its recommendations. Incidentally, the education board made clear its position as to the absence of fire escapes on the high school structure by directing attention to the fact that over two years ago it appealed to the county commissioners for a fund of $30,000 for improvements to the building, including modern escapes, but that the request was denied.

Compensation Law Increase Opposed

200 Lumber and Building Supply Dealers Appeal to Legislature.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Feb. 14.—Nearly 200 lumber and building supply dealers of Virginia, meeting here today in their fourth annual convention, unanimously adopted a resolution declaring that any increase of allowance in the workmen's compensation law at this session of the Legislature would "impose an excessive burden on industry at this time." The resolution was introduced following the report of the treasurer-manager of the association, H. Harris Mitchell, of Richmond, who stated that "after all the recent talk concerning lobbying, the labor faction has had the most elaborate system of lobbying in the Virginia assembly."

Mr. Mitchell asserted that Gov. Pollard during his campaign had promised supporters he would "change the existing compensation laws, if elected, but had not conferred with industry before making that statement."

"Industry," said Mr. Mitchell, "should not be made responsible for promises made by Dr. Pollard."

BISHOP IS CELEBRANT

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.

Phone Alexandria 523.

Last rites for the Rev. William Anthony McKeefry, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, who died suddenly Tuesday from a heart attack, were held yesterday in the church, when clergy and laity of many denominations from this city and State, Washington, Maryland and West Virginia filled the church to overflowing.

The Right Rev. Andrew J. Brenner, bishop of this diocese, came from Richmond as celebrant of the requiem mass. The Rev. Thomas A. Rankin, an old friend of the dead priest, preached the funeral oration, and a cousin of Father McKeefry, the Rev. Anthony Tohill, of the Catholic University, Washington, was the deacon.

The Rev. John A. Curran, of Harpers Ferry, was the subdeacon; the archpriest was the Right Rev. Mgr. E. M. Tearney, of Lynchburg; the deacons of honor to the bishop were the Rev. James A. Schmidhauser, of St. Mary's, and bookbearer, the Rev. James Comiskey, of Staunton.

Father Rankin took as his text, "He was beloved of God and men, whose memory is benediction," from the Book of Ecclesiastes, and spoke of the high esteem in which Father McKeefry was held, pointing to the large attendance of clergy and laity as evidence of that fact. He told of the long and useful life of the dead priest and mentioned his accomplishments from the time he was ordained a priest until his death. The last great work of Father McKeefry was the restoration of St. Mary's Church, Father Rankin said, and he was justly proud of what he had done. He was known as a builder, and monuments in the form of schools, churches and convents are to be found at the many points at which he was stationed. In closing, Father Rankin said there was only one requets that he knew Father McKeefry would make, and that would be that a prayer be offered for him.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Strange as it may seem, a driver in the District of Columbia can not race another even up to the legal speed limit. Racing is not specifically mentioned in this connection, but it is just as definitely prohibited as if it were.

The regulation governing such a case is that which requires an overtaken car to move over to the right at a horn signal from the driver behind. He may not increase his speed until the latter has passed.

Example: A motorist is proceeding along nearing a traffic light at a rate of 15 miles an hour. He has slowed down to wait for a green light. At the sound of a horn behind him he speeds up in order to be in a good position to get away at the intersection. He has violated the law.

FULTON NAMED HEAD OF FRUIT GROWERS

Horticultural Society of West Virginia Ends Business Session.

PACKAGE TAX FAVORED

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 14.—Merritt W. Fulton, Cherry Run, W. Va., was elected president of the West Virginia Horticultural Society at the final business session of the thirty-seventh annual two-day meeting here today. He succeeds Ed Leatherman, of Rada. The term is for two years.

Dr. A. B. Eagle, of Martinsburg, was named vice president. Under the established custom he will succeed to the presidency in 1932. Carroll B. Miller, of Martinsburg, was named secretary-treasurer, and M. B. Hoffman, Morgantown, assistant. All elections were by acclamation. Resolutions adopted included approval of the attitude of the State Department of Agriculture in protecting the interests of the fruit men and in calling the attention of the public to the laws protecting the fruit interests; support for a study of the national marketing act and calling for cooperation upon the part of fruit men; and approval of the work of Harry W. Miller, of Paw Paw, W. Va., in pushing appeals of the peach and apple freight rate cases.

The growers by vote indicated a desire to raise funds by direct tax per package to finance further work of the association, including publication of its records; prosecution of tax appeals, and cedar rust extermination programs. The society also took notice of a suggestion that the growers in the Ohio River Valley desire to be affiliated with the work of the society and took under consideration plans for a summer session in the Ohio River area. A banquet closes the meeting here tonight.

BILL SEEKS $100,000 TO HELP PARK PLAN

Would Join Virginia to Federal Scheme for Memorial to Washington.

150 NEW MEASURES IN

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 14.—Senator Frank L. Ball, of Arlington, today introduced in the Senate two bills that would create the Northern Virginia Park and Planning Commission and appropriate $100,000 to match Federal funds for the building of George Washington Memorial Park, which would extend from Mount Vernon to Great Falls.

These bills were among something like 150 introduced as the deadline on general bills at this session of the General Assembly, which closes March 8, fell. Delegate Hugh Reid, of Arlington, also introduced a measure of far-reaching import, which would abolish all special courts, including justices of peace, and set up a county court for Arlington, similar to a cities' corporation court.

Virtual agreement on a plan to raise the salary of C. H. Morrissett, State tax commissioner, from $7,000 to $12,000, was reached, it is understood, and he is expected to reconsider his resignation.

Committees reported favorably on the workmen's compensation measure as passed by the House, on the Hall free text boox bill and on more of the seafood measures, designed to cure "a sick industry." The workmen's compensation bill is a campaign pledge, and assurance of its passage is regarded as a victory for Gov. Pollard, although the increase from 50 to 55 per cent of the average weekly wage with a maximum increase, $12 to $14, is not as much as the governor had wished.

The first "moral lobby" of the session appeared today in opposition to the Coleman boxing bill, favorably reported by the moral and social welfare committee of the House, which would allow boxing matches, as opposed to prize fights, under auspices of clubs or the Army, Navy or Marine Corps.

The Lesner bills, providing for State-wide automobile drivers' permits, which have passed the Senate, were delayed in the House roads committee, to which they were recommitted, until another public hearing next Wednesday afternoon. The future for the measures, which, in addition to permits, would include a bill to make a bond or insurance necessary following three convictions for reckless driving, and for revocation of a permit to drive while any judgment remains unsatisfied, seems dark. Proponents of the measures, which would card index every automobile driver in the State for the purpose of identification and as a safety measure, see much opposition in the House, but hope to present the merits of the legislation proposed in such a manner as to pass them.

The full crew bills, supported by organized labor, were all killed by the House roads committee, as was the Bear bill, which would have allowed bus lines in the city of Roanoke exemption from the State gasoline tax.

Delegate R. L. Brewer, of Suffolk, introduced a bill that would give counties the right cities now have to parallel with ordinances the State prohibition laws in order that the fees might be kept at home.

Delegate W. M. Tuck, of Halifax, proposed a bill that would give gasoline companies in the State 2 per cent of the gasoline tax they now collect for the State free of charge, and Delegate John B. Dey, of Princess Anne, introduced a measure that would extend the Jim Crow law to motor busses. Delegate McCauley,
